WARWICK'S VIEWS.

THE MAN WHO DEFEATED M'KINLEY TALKS OF THE PRESIDENCY.

HE SAYS CLEVELAND IS NOT IN IT.

He Is for Hill, and Suggests Other Possibilities—An Interesting Talk with a Working Democrat.

CINCINNATI, O., April 29.—A special to The Enquirer from Pueblo, Col., says:

Ex-Governor John G. Warwick, of Ohio, the democrat who is congressman-elect from the sixteenth Ohio district, having defeated William McKinley for the office last fall, has been passing a few days in Pueblo, accompanied by his wife. In an interview with the distinguished gentleman he was asked: "Whom will we nominate for president?"

"Well, not Cleveland; we cannot afford to go into the campaign handicapped by his recent anti-silver letter with much prospect of victory. I want to see David B. Hill made the democratic candidate. Hill jumped into last year's fight in his usual aggressive, truculent way and did effective work. Cleveland held aloof, and then at the Columbus banquet following our victory modestly ascribed to himself the credit. If the contest between the Hill and Cleveland factions in New York grows too fierce, I believe that both will be dropped. No, I do not think that Gorman is in the fight, nor do I believe he wants the nomination. If it is not Hill it will probably be a western man. Mr. McKinley will doubtless be nominated by the republicans of Ohio for governor, and Campbell will be the democratic candidate. If Palmer were not too old his chances would be the best among westerners for the presidency, in case Hill and Cleveland are removed from the list of eligibles."

"Well, may not the lightning strike you, governor?" asked the reporter.

"Mr. Warwick laughingly replied, "No, I am a native of Ireland."

In response to a question concerning the speakership the Ohioan said:

"It may be Mills, it may be Crisp, of Georgia, or it may be Springer. I will not hazard a more definite guess."

A TALK WITH THE CHINESE

Minister About the Action of His Government in Rejecting Blair.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—A representative of the Associated Press this morning called at the Chinese legation here, and had an interview with Minister Yen in regard to the disinclination of his government to receive Senator Blair as the accredited representative of the United States.

Mr. Yen said, through an interpreter, that he had received a cablegram from the Chinese foreign office, which he was instructed to lay before Secretary Blaine without delay, expressing the unwillingness of the emperor to receive Mr. Blair. Other than this Mr. Yen had received no instructions, written or otherwise, from his government on the subject. The exact language of the cablegram or whether the reasons for this action were given, Mr. Yen declines to state. Personally he had a very high opinion of Senator Blair. He had met him several times, and had always found him to be a very courteous gentleman.

At the time Senator Blair was nominated minister to China, Mr. Yen was in Peru, to which government he is also the representative of China, and did not return to the United States until early in the present month. He had never had occasion to ascertain what had been Senator Blair's attitude towards China or Chinese residents in this country, and not until his return had the senators's utterances on the Chinese question, as reported in The Congressional Record, been brought to his attention.

The minister conveyed the impression that he had simply stated facts to his government, and aside from that had not sought to influence its decision, either favorably to the senator or unfavorably.

This action of the Chinese authorities has not created the least excitement here, as it had been anticipated by many from the first. The proceeding is not a very unusual one and cannot be construed as indicating an unfriendly feeling toward this government.

CHINA'S WISHES WILL BE RESPECTED.

Among departmental officials there is a general indisposition to discuss the subject of Blair's rejection. Still it is evident that there is no general desire to magnify the incident into the proportions of a diplomatic rupture. It is a long established rule of diplomacy that a nation is not obliged to accept a minister who is not persona grata, and that a rejection on that account is not to be construed into an intended affront to the dignity of the nation which sends the minister. The United States hesitated for a long time to fully endorse this rule, and showed some resentment when the Austrian government during the last administration asked that Minister Keily be not sent to Austria as United States minister. But about the time of the Sackville-West episode, the United States became an enthusiastic adherent of the policy that a nation is not bound to receive or retain a foreign minister who is not acceptable to its people. Then, too, there was a lingering recollection of the fact that the United States had, about the time of the French revolution, sent home the representative of the French republic because he had made himself obnoxious to the people of the United States.

ANOTHER ONE WILL BE APPOINTED.

In these cases the demand for the minister's recall was rather peremptory and we did not show the consideration manifested by the Chinese government in refraining from an absolute rejection of Minister Blair, and simply stating that his coming to China in the capacity of United States minister would not be entirely agreeable to the government of that country.

Altogether, opinion in official circles is generally that the United States is by its own conduct estopped from resenting Minister Blair's rejection, and that after waiting for a length of time sufficient to maintain national dignity a new minister will be appointed by President Harrison.

BLAIR RETURNS TO WASHINGTON.

CHICAGO, April 29.—Ex-United States Senator Henry W. Blair, who arrived in Chicago this morning en route to China, will return to Washington tomorrow. Tonight he received a dispatch from Secretary Blaine containing nothing but a request to that effect.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Futures advanced six to eight points, then became quieter, and closed barely steady. Liverpool opened at some decline, but made a quick rally and then an irregular advance. Although the course of the Liverpool market was believed to be largely under the influence of manipulation, our operators could not shake off its influence, and the opening of our market was quite buoyant, with free buying for August. The market soon became quieter, but the efforts to break the advance had little success, and there was only one or two points decline from the best figures of the morning. Spot cotton was quiet.

Sale of the Norfolk Southern.

NORFOLK, Va., April 29.—The Norfolk Southern railroad was sold today at Elizabeth City, N. C., for $500,000, under an order of the United States court to foreclose a lien of first mortgage bondholders. The purchasers were General Alexander T. Van Nest, and John G. Moore, of New York, who represent the reorganization committee of security holders. The name will be changed to the Norfork and Southern, and the management will remain the same.

PROTECTIVE TARIFF LEAGUE.

The Annual Banquet at Madison Square Garden.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The American Protective Tariff League gave its annual banquet tonight at Madison Square garden concert hall. The dinner was one of the most notable gatherings of eminent republicans that has ever been held in the city. The menu was stamped on sheets of tin of American make, designed by the St. Louis Stamping Company. The galleries were filled with prominent people. Cornelius N. Bliss presided at the banquet. On either side sat Vice President Morton on the right and William McKinley on the left. The others at this table were Secretary Noble, Senator Hiscock, J. P. Dolliver, of Iowa; Senator Aldrich, Collector Erhardt, Senator Dolph, Oregon; J. S. Clarkson, J. F. Hanson, of Georgia, Murat Halsted, Joseph M. Carey, Edward Stuart, J. M. Farquhar, George A. Sheridan, William E. Curtis and George Gunton. Among others present were: Robert P. Porter, Elliott F. Shepard, Appraiser Cooper, Washington E. Connor, William Penn Nixon, Leander H. Crolland and Howard Elmer Croll.

THE PRESIDENT AT PALO ALTO.

He Visits the Celebrated Stables and Stock Farm.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 29.—The president and Mrs. Harrison and party left San Francisco at 9 o'clock this morning for Palo Alto on a special train, accompanied by Mayor Sanderson and a committee of San Francisco citizens. Short stops were made San Malo and Redwood City, where large and enthusiastic crowds gathered. The president briefly addressed them. Merlo Park was reached at 10 o'clock. Senator and Mrs. Stanford, Senator Felton, Governor and Mrs. Markham, and a party of friends were waiting at the station with carriages. The president, accompanied by others, then visited the Stanford university buildings, and the Palo Alto stables and stock farm.

ARRIVAL AT SAN JOSE.

SAN JOSE, Cal., April 29.—The presidential train arrived in San Jose at 4 o'clock this afternoon. A national salute was fired, and large crowds gathered at the station and cheered lustily. The visitors were escorted to the Hotel Vendome, where an address of welcome was made by Mayor Rucker and responded to by the president.

ANOTHER ARREST MADE

Of a Man Suspected of Being New York's "Jack the Ripper."

JERSEY CITY, N. J., April 29.—At noon today the police of this city arrested a man supposed to be an Algerian sailor, and took him to police headquarters. Chief of Police Murphy said that there was no doubt that the man is the one wanted by Inspector Byrnes, of New York, for the murder of Carrie Brown at East River hotel. Inspector Byrnes was notified of the arrest and was requested to send an officer to Jersey City to identify the prisoner.

The man arrested is known as "Frenchy No. 2." He is a boss cattle driver on a tramp cattle ship, and was arrested in London, England, and imprisoned several weeks, but the authorities there were unable to identify him as "Jack the Ripper." He is a cousin of the man arrested in New York and known as "Frenchy No. 1."

THE CONDUCTOR TO BLAME

For an Accident Which Cost Him His Life, With Four Others.

BALTIMORE, April 29.—Five men were killed in a collision between a Cincinnati express and freight train on the Metropolitan branch of the Baltimore and Ohio road yesterday afternoon. The bodies of J. W. Amy, of Baltimore, conductor of the freight, and an unknown brakeman of the freight, were found under the engine this morning. Amy was supposed to have run away after the accident to escape punishment for the disaster, which his disobedience of orders caused.

PRESIDENT POLK DID NOT SPEAK.

Whatever Views He Has About a Third Party Are His Own.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 29.—[Special.]—President Polk, of the national alliance, positively denies the statement that in Hornellsville, N. Y., he advocated a third party. He telegraphs here today the following:

I expressed no opinion whatever as to a third party. What may be my individual opinion on that subject, I conceive that I have no right as president of a great non-partisan organization to usurp whatever of force an official expression might bring to it. If the exigencies of the situation demand the formation of a third party, the people will discover it and will have it. I am content to abide their decision.

THE FLORIDA BALLOTS.

The Situation Still Continues Without Change.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 29.—[Special.]—The caucus opened with ninety-eight present in person and by proxy. There were several changes from Call, but they were not concentrated. The ballot resulted: Call, 49; Speer, 40; Long, 3; Blank. 1; Gaskins, 2; Bloxham, 1; Mabrey, 1; excused, 2.

On the second ballot, Senator Wall rose and said that he had, from the first, been ready to support any good allianceman whom they might agree upon, and as no young man had yet been proposed, he would vote for Mays, of Jefferson. The applause was weak, and the result disappointing. Mays declined with faint applause. The ballot resulted, Call, 49; Speer, 37; Long, 5; Mays, 1; Wall, 1; Mabrey, 1; Bloxham, 1; Gaskins, 1; Blank, 1.

Next ballot—Call, 49; Speer, 38; Long, 5; Gaskin, 2; Bloxham 1; Mabrey, 1; Blank, 1.

LOOK OUT FOR "OLD HUTCH."

He Wears a Troubled Look and Is Coming South.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 29.—The Chicago speculator, B. P. Hutchinson, arrived in this cito this morning at 10:15 o'clock and left at 2:05 o'clock this afternoon for the south, over the Louisville and Nashville road. He seemed troubled and anxious. The agent at the station thinks he bought a ticket for Memphis.

A Mobile Failure.

MOBILE, Ala., April 29.—Henry Bernstein, wholesale shoe dealer, made an assignment today. Liabilities $75,000; assets between $50,000 and $60,000. Preferences to the amount of $20,000 cover a $11,000 debt to his sister, $3,500 to another sister, $4,000 to a local bank and $1,350 to sundry parties. The principal creditors are Boston shoe merchants. The failure creates great surprise as the house was rated gilt-edged. It is known, however, that Bernstein disposed of his private residence and store a few months ago.

The Bank Is All Right.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Business was transacted as usual this morning at the Ninth National bank, and there was nothing to indicate its loss of $400,000. The receiving teller was busy all the time. He said the amount of deposits was up to the average. This forenoon he sent $900,000 to the clearing house. No loans have been called in, and everything is going on as usual.

A Hawaiian Crisis.

CHICAGO, April 29.—A San Francisco dispatch says that Honolulu advices report that Minister Carter has resigned from the cabinet, and the people are clamoring for a republic. It is said that the life of the queen is in danger.

CHATTANOOGA'S BLAZES,

TWO LARGE CONFLAGRATIONS THERE YESTERDAY.

EAST TENNESSEE ROAD A HEAVY LOSER.

Burning of Large Buildings, Including a Freight Depot—Cars Loaded with Merchandise Also Destroyed.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 29.—There was a terrible conflagration here this morning. The loss is fully $250,000; insurance, only $150,000. The fire commenced at 3 o'clock a. m., in Campbell & Co.'s furniture factory, on King street; soon got beyond control of the fire department and rapidly took in everything in the near neighborhood. It was 7 o'clock a. m. before the flames were under control, and the field of destruction covered twenty acres. The loss is about as follows:

Campbell & Co., furniture factory, loss, $75,000; insurance, about $50,000.

G. G. Lily, two-story brick, just completed, not occupied, loss, $15,000; insurance, $13,000.

East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad Company, freight depot complete; loss on building, about $25,000; contents estimated at $25,000. There were also about seventy-five freight cars destroyed, about fifty being filled with miscellaneous freight.

The loss on the destruction of these cars does not fall short of $75,000, making a total loss to the railroad company of about $125,000.

The amount of insurance is not known. There were several small buildings destroyed, which may aggregate $10,000 in loss.

By heroic efforts the new Mountain City flouring mills just completed at a cost of nearly $200,000 were saved. The Morrison Lumber Company incurred only a small loss on account of destruction of some lumber in the yard. A large quantity of lumber in the vicinity of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad depot was destroyed. The fire raged furiously for four hours. Several carloads of combustibles were burned, among others a carload of fireworks, creating a great panic in the crowd witnessing and working about the fire. The three fire engines of the fire department were of little use owing to the great field covered.

While this fire was raging in its greatest fury another broke out on East Montgomery avenue near Grandview hotel and a two-story brick and eight frame cottages were destroyed, involving a loss of about $20,000, fully covered by insurance.

The fire department sent a few sections of hose to this fire and volunteers manned the hose lines and finally got the fire under control. The property burned belonging to William Wilhoite.

The following is a revised and much more accurate statement of the losses and insurance in the early morning fire: Campbell & Co., loss $43,000, insurance $26,500; Mountain City mill, loss $10,000, insurance $1,000; Peak warehouse, loss $35,000, insurance $31,400; G. G. Lilly, loss $11,000, insurance $7,000; J. T. Rawlins & Co., loss $10,000, insurance $6,000; minor losses $1,500. The East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railway's loss is $90,100, with general railway insurance. The total loss is $182,600.

THE SENSATION OF PIGEON RIVER.

The Young Man Who Courts Three Young Ladies in Succession.

PIGEON RIVER, N. C., April 29.—[Special.] The village of Pigeon River was thrown into a most unusual state of excitement yesterday on account of the attempted suicide of one Will Drake, a young man who has been stopping in this vicinity for some time.

About one year ago young Drake came here from Hendersonville, N. C., and worked until recently in the railroad office, when he went to Clyde, a neighboring village. Before going, however, he became enamored of several of the young ladies of this place, among whom were three sisters, who, each in turn shared in the distribution of his affections.

On Friday last, a Mr. Long, the telegraph operator, knowing Drake's amorous disposition, wrote him that it was the desire of one of these three that he should pay her a visit at his convenience. He, of course, at once imagined that the gentility of his presence was essential to the happiness of the young lady, and made haste to come. The young lady, who was in total ignorance of the whole proceeding, it seems, failed to bestow on him a sufficiency of the sunlight of her smiles, which made him very despondent. He went out and made several fruitless attempts to procure a revolver with which to shuffle off this mortal coil. He then repaired to the drug store, where he purchased a vial of laudanum, which he soon attempted to swallow, but, owing to his nervous condition, he dropped the vial and the drug was lost. By this time, several persons had noticed his actions, and their interference prevented the accomplishment of any further recklessness.

After he had become somewhat composed he was seen by your correspondent, and, on being questioned by him, acknowledged his indiscretion and seemed ashamed of having attempted such rashness, and on account of so little provocation.

He took the next train back to Clyde, where it is supposed he will remain until he has received another invitation to pervade this place with his abundant presence, and the invitation will likely have to be characterized by a strong indication of genuineness.

THE REPORT MADE

Concerning the Accounts of Commissioner Kolb.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 29.—[Special.]—The long expected report of Examiner Reeves of the amount of the accounts of the commissioner of agriculture) was filed with the governor today. The law makes such reports public documents, but the governor withholds the document from the public to allow the commissioner to first examine and explain, or comment if he so desires. This report is made at the commissioner's own request, owing to certain charges preferred against him during last year's heated state campaign. The commissioner is absent, and soon after his return, in a few days, the report will be made public.

Blown Into Atoms.

OSWEGO, N. Y., April 29.—A freight locomotive of the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg road, exploded while shifting a caboose in the yard here today. James Cummings, engineer, was instantly killed, his body being blown 200 yards over a house and falling in a horribly mangled mass in a garden. One of his legs was found 100 feet further away. The fireman, who was on the tender at the time of the explosion, was blown on top of the caboose and terribly scalded, but will recover. The locomotive was completely wrecked. The cause of the explosion is a mystery.

Oldest Man in Western North Carolina Dead.

WHITEHEAD, N. C., April 29.—[Special.]—Jesse P. Candill passed quietly away at his home near here at 7:30 o'clock this morning. He was born April 24, 1795. He was twice married, each wife giving birth to eleven children, of which fifteen still live. He was one of the first settlers of Alleghany county. By economy and attentiveness he settled off all his children with good homes. He was citizen, politician and a Christian, loved by all his countrymen.

His Victim Is Dead.

GREENVILLE, S. C., April 29.—[Special.]—Annie Bright alias Bryant, the woman who was shot by Meredith Cox in a house of ill fame, at this place about a month ago, died in the hospital today. She has been paralyzed ever since the shooting occurred. Cox was arrested and is now in jail awaiting his trial for murder at the next term of court.

PRECAUTIONS IN PARIS

AGAINST DISORDER IN THE MAY DAY DEMONSTRATION.

THE TROOPS SUPPLIED WITH CARTRIDGES

And Confined to Their Barracks—The Government Has Decided that There Shall Be No Parade.

PARIS, April 29.—A most serious feeling of alarm prevails in official circles here at the possibility of an anarchist outbreak on May 1st. As a result, the military and police authorities have taken, and are taking, the most extreme precautions, and are making every preparation possible to effectually meet and promptly suppress any disorder on the part of the anarchists or others. Several violent anarchist manifestoes, intended to incite soldiers composing the garrison of Paris and its neighborhood to revolt, have recently been circulated by agents of the anarchists.

Several of these incendiary documents are in the possession of the police, who are now engaged in searching the residences of anarchist leaders. It is announced that from today until the May Day excitement is over, no soldiers will be allowed to leave their barracks except on guard duty, or to bring in supplies, provisions, etc. Even officers are confined to the barracks. To each soldier of the garrison 100 rounds of ball cartridges have been distributed.

The military authorities have also arranged plans for communication with the different military posts, barracks and forts, and have completed arrangements for the concentration and distribution at points of vantage of troops available in case of disorder. Thus, the entire military and police forces of Paris are prepared almost at a moment's notice to issue forth from their quarters and occupy the streets and squares of Paris in such a manner that any anarchist movement will be pretty sure to be nipped in the bud, however well it may be planned.

WILL THERE BE A PARADE.

PARIS, April 28.—The programme for May Day is placarded throughout the city. Provincial deputations will accompany the workmen in their procession to the chambers in the afternoon to present their demands. The government is preparing strong measures to preserve order.

It is officially announced that no labor demonstration will be allowed in the streets of this city on May Day.

THE EXCITED ITALIANS.

A Serious Charge Causes an Uproar in the Chamber of Deputies.

ROME, April 29.—Signor Imbriani, in the chamber of deputies today, speaking on the African question, charged the Italian government with permitting the slave trade to be carried on openly. Imbriani also made the assertion that thirty-five young girls, who had been taken from their former owners, under the pretext of rescuing them from slavery, had been distributed among a number of Italian officers serving with the Italian army in Africa.

Marquis di Rudini, replying for the Italian government, protested against such accusations being made without absolute proof of their truth having been first obtained.

Amidst cries of "It's a lie!" "Withdraw!" the minister of war declared that he would not remain in the house unless the charge was withdrawn.

A prolonged uproar, during which several violent scenes were witnessed, followed the announcement of the determination of the minister of war. The president of the chamber was utterly unable to control the excited deputies, and consequently he was compelled to suspend the sitting.

THE LADY'S STORY

Of the Massacre at Mainpur—Quinton Managed Affairs Badly.

CALCUTTA, April 29.—Mrs. F. H. C. Grimwood, wife of Mr. Grimwood, late British political agent at Manipur, who was murdered when Chief Commissioner James Quinton and other British officials lost their lives, has arrived in this city.

According to Mrs. Grimwood's account of the Manipur massacre, the whole disaster was entirely due to the rashness of Commissioner Quinton in refusing to listen to the sensible advice given him in regard to negotiations being conducted with the native chiefs concerning the disposition of the maharajah. Mrs. Grimwood adds that the British have little right to complain of Senaputty's treachery insomuch as Senaputty (second brother of the deposed maharajah and commander-in-chief of the Manipuri's forces) was invited by Quinton to attend Durbar with the direct intention of taking him unawares and placing him under arrrest without bloodshed, which would, it was supposed, have resulted from an attempt to openly arrest him.

Senaputty became suspicious of Quinton's intentions and did not appear at Durbar but captured his expectant captors, and afterwards allowed the Manipuris to wreak bloody vengeance upon his captives.

Mrs. Grimwood's story, which nobody seems to doubt, is a true version of events which led up to the Manipur massacre, and has caused severe reflection to be cast upon the manner in which the entire Manipur incident has been handled, from the time the maharajah was deposed down to the apparently inexplicable delay in pushing forward the British forces.

THE TEACHERS OF GEORGIA.

Speeches by Messrs. Pringle, Bradwell and Others.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—Today was an important day of the teachers' convention.

At 9:30 oclock the association was called to order by President Thigpen. After appointing a committee on membership, the president called for the report of the committee appointed to work up public sentiment in favor of public schools.

Professor Glenn, the chairman, reported good progress.

Individual reports were then heard from J. W. Frederick, of Marshalville; Superintendent A. M. Robertson, of Dawson; Superintendent J. C. Harris, of Cedartown, and Professor Euler B. Smith, on behalf of Mr. Lyman Ford, who was absent.

Then the association listened to an address by Hon. C. R. Pringle, president of the American Forest Association.

State School Commissioner Bradwell next stirred the enthusiasm of the teachers. "Educate your girls," said he, "even if you have to keep your boys at home and keep them in the cornfield."

During his speech Commissioner Bradwell, in the name of the Empire State of the South, welcomed the representative of the Empire State of the North, Hon. A. S. Draper, with a hearty handshake.

After the commissioner's speech a resolution was introduced and referred petitioning the legislature to appropriate $10,000 for the establishment of normal institutes.

The chairman of the membership committee reported an enrollment of 150 new members.

Tonight Dr. J. A. L. Curry addressed the association.

In Defense of His Wife.

ANNISTON, Ala., April 29.—[Special.]—A white farmer named John Thomas, whose farm lies just over the mountain from Anniston, was mortally wounded with a shotgun in the hands of a negro man who claims that Thomas insulted his wife. The shooting occurred in the eastern suburbs of the city. The negro and his wife are both in jail, awaiting the results of Thomas's wounds. Thomas is very low, with chances of recovery against him. The evidence against the negro, aside from the fact that Thomas identified him today, is very conclusive.

FISH, OYSTERS AND TURTLES.

One of the Rising Industries of Southwestern Texas.

SAN ANTONIA, Tex., April 29.—[Special.]—The taking and canning of oysters and turtles for the markets from the waters of the Gulf of Mexico, while yet in its infancy, has already attained the dignity of an established business at Rockport and Corpus Christi, and in connection with the shipments of fish is quite an industry. The business is very nearly monopolized by Italians and Mexicans, so far as the handling of fish are concerned, and only those that are found in shoal waters are taken, such as red fish, trout, croakers, flounders, sheephead and similar kinds. Only two or three of these varieties ever find their way to anything like distant markets. It has been the custom of fishermen along the gulf coast to only drag their seines where the water is shallow enough for them to wade, which is very destructive to the fish, breaking up the spawning grounds and driving the fish away from their accustomed feeding and breeding places. No more profitable business could be entered into than to properly fit out a fleet of small vessels for fishing in the deeper waters of the gulf, where Spanish mackerel, groupers, red snapper, pompano and other varieties abound, but are never seen in the markets, but which would command ready sale and good prices.

Oysters are being cultivated to some extent in the bays and estuaries of the gulf and find purchasers throughout the interior of the country as well as large shipments that are made to points in other states. No attempt has been made to improve the oyster, as has been done in other countries, but the time is coming when more attention will be paid to the production of the bivalves both as to quality and quantity.

Green turtles are taken along the gulf coast, and such as are not shipped alive are prepared at an establishment near Rockport, canned and shipped to the northern markets. The demand has never yet been fully met. Pens have been built out in the water, where the fishermen put the turtles as they are caught, until it is convenient to take them to the factory. These turtles are always in prime condition and vary in weight from 150 to 600 pounds.

Nothing has ever been done in the way of shipping shrimps or crabs to markets more distant than Austin or San Antonio, though they exist in quantities and are easily taken. The shrimp of the gulf are large and of delicious flavor, and the crabs excellent. The opening for the taking and marketing of these delicacies and the building up of a remunerative business is exceptionally promising. The establishment of a depot for the handling of these products of the waters of the gulf at San Antonio would be a profitable investment, and this city, on account of its commanding location, being the trade center of southwest Texas, is of all others the place to operate from.

Nashville Races.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 29.—The delightful weather and the splendid condition of the track today caused 8,000 people to be present. The event of the day was Linck's hotel handicap for three-year-olds and upwards, one mile, and it turned out a great surprise, being won by Long Shot, 40 to 1. The track was exceedingly fast.

First race, half a mile, Bracelet first, Queen Isabella second, Elsie S third. Time, 0:50¼.

Second race, seven and a half furlongs, Bertha first, Carus second, Arundel third. Time, 1:36¾.

Third race, five furlongs, Little Midget first, Belle Redmond second, Nettie Kent third. Time, 1:02½.

Fourth race, one mile, Long Shot first, Brandolette second, John Sherman third. Time, 1:41.

Fifth race, six furlongs, Clark first, Kehama second, Bob McCort third. Time, 1:17.

Races at Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The weather was fine and the racing full of surprises. Not a single favorite won.

First race, half a mile, Forest won, Beverwyck second, Oppressor third. Time, 0:50.

Second race, six furlongs, Annapolis won, Hyatica second, Fergus third. Time, 1:17½.

Third race, one mile, L'Intriguante won, Gallifet second, Strideaway third. Time, 1:43½.

Fourth race, seven furlongs, India Rubber won, Lowlander second, Sequence colt third. Time, 1:29½.

Fifth race, selling, one mile, Eleve and Ely dead heat, Donley third. Time, 1:45½. Eleve won in the run-off. Time, 1:46¼.

The Mill Was Robbed.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 29.—[Special.]—News reached the city today that some parties last night went to Laurinsky's mill, near Verbena, and carried off absolutely everything contained in the mill commissary, valued at several thousand dollars. The country about Verbena is infested with a daring band of robbers, who have in the past few weeks perpetrated a number of bold robberies.

Insane from Cigarette Smoking.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 29.—[Special.]—Edward Freeman, a young telegraph operator here, in the employ of the Knoxville, Cumberland Gap and Louisville Railroad Company, has been adjudged insane. This lamentable condition is due solely to his excessive use of cigarettes. It is said that he smoked several boxes a day. His parents live at Asheville, to which place he will be sent.

THE ROOF CAME DOWN,

AND CRUSHED TWO YOUNG LADIES TO DEATH.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT AT TROY, ALA.

While a Company of Local Artists Were Rehearsing the Opera House Collapses. Two Young Ladies Killed.

TROY, Ala., April 29.—[Special.]—The most appalling calamity of Troy's history befell her this afternoon at 5 o'clock. The people were startled by a terrible rumble and crash. Folmar's new opera house had collapsed, and more than twenty people were in the ruins. Professor Callaway's music class was in the building rehearsing for a concert, when, without an instant's warning, the roof gave way and came down upon them. The fire bell sounded and a great crowd quickly gathered. Agonizing shrieks for help came from within. All were quickly taken out, when it was found that two young ladies had been killed and two others dangerously hurt. The dead are Miss Fannie Lou Starke, only child of Judge W. B. Starke, of Troy, and Miss Annie Foster, of Eastman, Ga., who was a pupil in the normal college. Those seriously, and perhaps fatally, hurt are Miss Maggie Burnett and Miss Eula Downing. A number of other young ladies were more or less injured. Professor Callaway and Professor W. E. Griffin, superintendent of the city schools, were both severely bruised. The latter was knocked senseless. It is almost incredible that the casualties were no greater. The accident resulted from the roof spreading and pushing down the wall.

THEY USED THEIR FISTS.

How a Couple of Dalton Bloods Settled a Difficulty.

DALTON, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—Not under the code of the duello but under the Marquis of Queensberry rules.

Court plaster and sponge have superseded probe and knife in Dalton.

The duel is the talk of the town.

It occurred yesterday between two of Dalton's society young men.

A few days ago an altercation took place between Mr. Joe Mullachamp and Mr. Hubert Williams in regard to an engagement made by Mr. Williams to escort a popular young lady to a dance.

The young men of the town that no conflict may arise, made a list of the ladies who are expected to attend the entertainments, and check off the names, thus having a general understanding as to the couples that will be present.

Mr. Mellachamp claimed that Mr. Williams, after getting left where he intended to make an engagement, took advantage of him and made an engagement with the lady that by the list he was to accompany. Williams denied this and Mellachamp gave him the fighting word. Williams resented this with a blow. Friends interrupted and prevented further combat.

Mellachamp's blood was up, and he demanded satisfaction.

Fists were decided on as the weapons and a secluded spot on the Dalton and Tunnell Hill road, about four miles from here, was selected as the place.

At the appointed time Williams, with his second, Mr. Porter Walker, of the First National bank, and Mellachamp, with his best man, Mr. John Shumate, were on the ground.

A circle was drawn and the duelists stepped in. Mellachamp was light-weight, weighing about 140 pounds. Williams belonged to the heavy-weight, tipping the beam at 175.

At the word both men fired, and continued to fire until time was called. Williams was uninjured, and Mellachamp had the cuticle removed from a portion of his nose.

When time was called both men promptly entered the ring and went at it in earnest. When this round ended, Mellechamp's appearance proved that he was determined to save his cuticle. Williams was not so fortunate, as indicated by the contusions in different designs on his countenance.

At the end of the third round Mellechamp had sustained no further injury, and Williams had more architectural work on his face.

The affair was getting too much on the style of a victorious reception for Williams, and he was tiring of a play where the only change in the scenery or acting was his facial expression. He was not a Sol Smith Russell, and if he was he desired to manipulate his own physognomy.

Time for the fourth round was called. Williams declared that his lungs refused to extract sufficient oxygen from the air under the exertion, and the duel was at an end.

Both young men were able to be at the ball last night.

THE FIRST MATE KILLED.

The Captain of the Vessel Held to Answer for It.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—First Mate McKee, of the British bark Catherine, was accidentally killed at the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia docks taday, and his captain, Patrick Haimey, is now in Glynn jail, awaiting the investigation of his death. Captain Haimey, when interviewed, said: "McKee, who was my mate, was a perfect bully, and formerly ran a sailors' boading house in Belfast, Ireland. Several times on the way over from Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, he threatened to whip me, but resorted to no violence until today, when we were towed to the dock. The stevedore asked McKee to heave the anchor. He refused, and the stevedore came to me. I also requested him to heave the anchor, but with an oath he refused. He was standing on the forecastle deck, and I saw he meant fight. Shucking my coat I made for him with a blow, but he warded it, and in doing so tripped over the rail overboard. In falling his head struck the peak of the anchor, and was split open. His body has not yet been recovered. After consulting Consul Tarras, I gave myself up to the sheriff."

The Cavalry Tournament in Savannah.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—One of the finest tilting tournaments ever held in the south will take place tomorrow afternoon at the Pompeii grounds. The track is in a fine condition, and a close and thrilling contest is expected. Nine teams, comprising the best tilters of the Fifth Georgia regiment, will enter. The prizes are $150, $1,500 and $50. The best individual tilter will be made regimental color sergeant for the year.

This was Tybee day. An interesting programme of sport drew about 5,000 people to the seashore.

The Contest for Treasurer.

SANDERSVILLE, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—Considerable interest is being manifested in the coming contest for treasurer of Washington county which takes place next Friday, May 1st. There are three candidates for the office, Messrs. T. H. Sparks, P. R. Taliaferro and J. F. Hawkins. Every voter in the county should give expression to his choice at the ballot box next Friday. It is a duty as well as a privilege to vote.

Labor Hard to Get.

RINGGOLD, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—Work on the Duncan silver mine near this place has been resumed. The Catoosa Mining and Manufacturing Company is employing all the men they can hire. The result is, laborers on the farm are hard to obtain. The farmers feel the effects.

The Loss is Total.

LAGRANGE, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—J. E. Jackson's livery stable and contents, except live stock, were destroyed by fire at 2 o'clock this morning. The loss is total. Insured for $2,250. The cause of the fire is unknown.

TELEGRAPH BREVITIES.

The printers of Rome, Italy, are on strike.

Total gold coin ordered for exportation to Europe this week $1,150,000.

A decree has been issued ordering the enforcements in St. Petersburg of the same measures against the Jews as were recently decreed against the Hebrews of Moscow. Certain quarters are mentioned where Jews may reside in St. Petersburg.

The influenza is assuming an alarming type in some parts of England.

Representatives of the chief tin-plate manufacturing firms of the country met in New York and effected a temporary organization of tin-plate manufacturers of the United States.

Fire at Stillwater, Minn., did $100,000 damage to the Thresher Company's paint shop.

THEY ARE AT OUTS.

THE BLOCKMAKERS AND THE GRANITE BED OWNERS.

Men at Lithonia Have Quit Work Because They Want an Increase in Wages.

LITHONIA, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—Rowdy, insolent negroes, idle white men, and a complete paralysis of business have been the unpleasant features of this village for the month of April.

And with these there has been a constant feeling of uneasiness among the good people of the town.

The uneasy feeling, too, has grown from day to day.

Its growth was augmented today by the arrest of four persons who have been leaders of the gang of idlers and the threats of their friends to see them through.

Then the shooting of a hen-roost visitor last night has given the people another alarm—an alarm which almost promised trouble early this morning.

The unpleasant situation has grown out of a disagreement between the stone workers of Lithonia and their employers, the Venable Bros., the Southern Granite Company, Wilson Bros. and G. W. Johnson.

Since the first of the present month the rock makers have been idle.

And their idleness has been productive of much mischief, directly and indirectly.

Georgia's granite fields, every one knows, are the basis of one of her greatest industries.

At Lithonia and Stone Mountain the most prolific and industriously worked granite beds in the south are located. At Lithonia the Venable Bros. and the Southern Granite Company have large fields of the granite in inexhaustible quantities.

Then several smaller companies quarry the stone in a paying manner.

All of these togethes employ nearly 1,000 men and to them something like $50,000 to $60,000 a month is paid.

But for the past month the stone manufacturers have paid out nothing.

And the stonemakers have had no money to spend.

Five years ago when the granite industry began to grow the owners of the granite beds began bringing in trained men to handle the rock and put it into the shape required by the contracts made. These trained men were Scotchmen, Irishmen and Welchmen, and for a long time the work went evenly along. They came to Georgia from the eastern states, and from the Missouri granite beds. There the intense cold of the winter gave them a long vacation—at their own expense. Here, however, under Georgia's sunny skies, they found they could work the year through.

This pleased them, and the men, fine workmen that they were, pleased the granite bed owners.

A few months after the first school of workmen came to Georgia, others followed, brought here by the inviting letters written to them. Quickly the stonecutters throughout the country learned that the Georgia beds of granite were without bottom, and that the Georgia climate was so warm and genial that the work could be done all the year outdoors.

This brought a field full, and more would have come could they have been promised work.

With the large number of workmen on the mountain and at Lithonia a labor organization was thought advisable.

The blockmakers' union was the result.

This was composed of men who made from the granite given them by drillers, blocks, used in street-paving. It soon became a popular organization, and was granted its powers and privileges as a labor body by the national organization. It was composed almost wholly of foreign workmen, and the members were paid by the piece for their work.

The Blockmakers Union produced another. This was called a stonecutters' union. The Stone Cutters' Union, though doing a more finished class of work, received less money than the Blockmakers.

With both of these organizations, the Southern Granite Company and the Venable brothers had an agreement as to price, hours, etc., and up to the first of this month every thing rolled along nicely.

The stonecutters pay gave them from $3.50 to $4.00 a day.

The blockmakers were paid $20 per thousand blocks and made from $5 to $11 a day.

The stonecutters handled the stone after it had been quarried and was delivered to them and turned out curbing, building stone and stone for bridge work.

The blockmakers paid the men who handled the stone and made blocks used for street work.

But during 1890 the granite bed owners put in their own drillers, and gave the blockmakers a chance to save for themselves the price they had been paying for the drilling.

This pleased the blockmakers, because it gave them the full pay for making the block.

It pleased the drillers because it gave new men work.

But it has proven a bad thing for the quarry owners.

For a long time the drillers, who were nearly all negroes, earning from 80 cents to $1.25 a day, were satisfied. But early this year they began to show a clannish disposition. Then it leaked out that they had formed a union, and that the union had been advised, fostered and produced by the blockmakers.

In March last the blockmakers called upon the granite bed owners and presented a schedule of prices, saying:

"We want that pay after April 1st next."

The schedule showed the blockmakers wanted $25 a 1,000 blocks.

Concurrent with it came a demand from the drillers' union for an increase from 80 cents, the lowest pay, to $1.50 and up.

The granite bed men refused to accede to the demand and asked for a consultation. This the blockmakers declined. Then the granite owners suggested an arbitration proposing to pay one-half of the expenses of the grand secretary of the order from Waverly, Mass., to Atlanta. Again the blockmakers refused. Then the companies positively refused to pay the $25. After this the union agreed to take $22 a thousand. This time the companies refused to give.

Both parties knew that if an agreement was not reached before April 1st the men would quit work. This would be a strike, and the blockmakers at all other quarries would be asked to join in it.

The quarry owners decided to prevent this, and on the last day of March quit work. This threw every member of every union out of work and prevented a strike. Then on the 2d of April the companies gave notice that they were ready to resume work and would contract with labor at a price agreed upon.

This shut out all who did not want to accept the prices the companies were willing to give.

Then the members of the three unions became idle. The white men enjoyed their rest quietly, but the negroes became insolent, and openly avowed they would have what they wanted or cause trouble.

Several attempts to adjust the matter were made, but nothing could be done.

After a few days idleness, a few of the stone cutters went to work because they found no more interest in the situation than an interest coming out of a membership in a kindred organization.

Then the companies found men ready to do the drilling and the stone-cutting went along merrily. This did not please the members of the Drillers' Union and the block makers and the non-union drillers were threatened with death if they continued to work. These threats caused the granite bed owners lots of trouble and the officers were asked to interfere. This did not stop the trouble and several of the non-union men were actually driven away. Then the granite men secured warrants against four of the ringleaders—Blassingame, Phee, Anderson and Johnson—charging them with intimidating their workmen.

Three of the men made bond and one was sent to jail.

This aroused the negroes to a fever heat, and last night the negroes swarmed the streets and the citizens were apprehensive of trouble.

During the night several pistol shots added to the uneasiness. Mr. John George discovered someone robbing his chicken roost and fired upon him. The negroes now say that the chicken thief part is a fabrication.

Today the feeling is no better, but Major Milner has things well in hand and says there will be no trouble.

Mr. Orr Venable, who has charge of the Venable Brother's work here, says he hopes to see the matter adjusted in a day or two. "We regret the trouble," said he, "more than anybody; more, probably, than the men themselves. There is but one difference between us."

"And that is——?"

"The price. We pay well—just as well as we can; as well as any company in the country. When they made the demand for an increase we agreed to submit our books to any one unbiased, and if that party said we could do so we would grant what they asked.

"This is the only country where the men can work the year round, and then we give 'em every chance. Ninety per cent of them are foreigners and never invest a dollar. We get along nicely with the natives and Irish and Welchmen. The negroes give us the trouble now."

A leading member of the union, a Mr. McGrath, said:

"We only differ on the scale. Both firms have been kind to us. For my part, I'm ready to go to work, only the union keeps me out. I hope and think all will be settled in a day or two."

Among other things which the present trouble has developed is that the men signed a means with which to enforce their demands in the law preventing the importation of foreign laborers under contract. Of the 2,100 block-makers in this country 95 per cent are foreigners. They will not, so it is claimed, admit Americans to their trade, their provisions in this respect amounting practically to prohibition.

They hold the contract labor laws as a cudgel over the head of the employers to prevent the bringing in of other foreigners. So they keep the business in their own hands, and preserve the strongest possible union organization, and the law, in a measure, so it is argued, acts to the injury of the American workmen, in whose interest it was made.

Mayor Milner says he will see that Lithonia has no trouble. He'll manage the badly disposed crowd.

HIS FAITHFUL DOG.

The Devotion of a Canine Probably Saved His Master's Life.

ALBANY, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—A dog's devotion to his master was forcibly illustrated in the fight between Boisey Bailey and H. H. Morgan, in this city, brief particulars of which were wired THE CONSTITUTION Saturday night. Both men were under the influence of liquor, and as Bailey proved less powerful physically than his antagonist, he was thrown or knocked down, and while he was in a state of elongation Morgan got out his blade and crawling on his prostrate form, proceeded to dissect him. The penknife was sent into Bailey's left side and on both of his thighs a deep gash was cut.

Just at this juncture, while the two men were struggling with might and main—the one to inflict more wounds and the other to ward them off—a dog belonging to Bailey came to his master's rescue, and probably saved his life.

The canine caught Morgan in the thigh, and, being of the bull pug species, he held on with tenacious grip and compelled him to release his efforts to kill his master. Morgan then cut the dog in the shoulder, nearly severing one leg from the body; but the faithful brute did not let loose his hold until he had been slung off by main force.

Morgan now says that his name is Black, and that he was raised in Fulton county, where he has two brothers in comfortable circumstances, but his home at present is Race Pond, Charlton county.

Boisey Bailey, the man whom he cut, was entirely unarmed, and the intervention of a dog no doubt prevented him being killed on the spot.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO.

The Money Paid for Five Bales of Cotton at the Close of the War.

SANDERSVILLE, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—Captain I. Hermann has handed The Progress an interesting relic of twenty-five years ago. It is the bill of sale of five bales of cotton made by Guilmartin & Co., of Savannah, for I. Hermann & Co. Four of these bales weighed 1,807 pounds, and sold at 41 cents, making a total of $740.87. The fifth bale was "mixed." It weighed 495 pounds and was sold at 35 cents, or $173.25. The five bales brought $914.12. The internal revenue tax was 2 cents per pound, or $46.04, and the storage, weighing, insurance, commission, etc., added to the revenue, amounted to $77.44, leaving a net balance of $836.68 for the five bales. The cotton was sold on the 28th of September, 1865. Quite a difference in the price then and now.

Held for Trial.

FORT GAINES, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—Whiddon, Osburn and Morris, charged by the coroner's jury as accessories to the murder of Joel M. Holmes, on the 21st instant, at Holmes's plantation, five miles north of this place, were today brought before Judge J. H. Guerry, sitting as a committing court. After hearing all the testimony Morris was ordered released, and Whiddon and Osburn committed to jail in default of bonds for their appearance at the September term of the superior court of Clay county. Whiddon's bond was assessed at $7,500 and Osburn at $5,000. It is thought that Whiddon will succeed in making his bond and be released, but there is some doubt about Osburn making bond. Napier, the one who did the killing, is still at large.

Changed Its Location.

BLUE RIDGE, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—The Fannin County Gazette has been moved from Mineral Bluff to Morganton, Ga. Hereafter it will be published from that place. The name of the paper will be changed after the proper advertising. The Gazette now belongs to a stock company, and will doubtless make the owners of the stock a handsome dividend, as papers in north Georgia pay better than anything else, according to the amount of capital employed. The present editor will continue to manage the helm. We wish the new paper success in its new quarters.

The Buttermilk Exploded.

SANDERSVILLE, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—In a quarrel between Isadore Hines and his wife, Adeline, the latter emphasized her argument by striking Isadore over the head with a bottle of buttermilk. The bottle broke and Isadore's head was badly damaged. He was knocked senseless, and remained so for some time. After the fracas was over Adeline claimed that she only held the bottle to her husband's head and the buttermilk exploded.

Sadler Is in Jail.

DAWSON, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—Mr. John Brooks, town marshal of Parrott, was severely cut in the neck and face by a Mr. Sadler whom he was attempting to convey to the guardhouse. The marshal used his club on Sadler, whereupon the latter got out his knife and "went for" Mr. Brooks and escaped. The town council offered a reward of $25 for the arrest of Sadler, and he is now lodged in jail awaiting trial.

Both Parties Were Young.

ALBANY, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—At the residence of W. W. Rawlins, in this city, this evening at 8:30 o'clock, Mr. Quinney Rawlins and Miss Hattie Oliver were married. The groom is nineteen and the bride sixteen. The marriage was a Gretna Green affair made necessary in consequence of the sternest objection from the young lady's mother, who had forbidden her to receive the attention of the young man.

The Marriage Was a Surprise.

RINGGOLD, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—The New South, of this date, publishes the facts of the secret marriage of W. N. Dorsey, the night operator at this place, and Miss Ada Ransome, of Chickamauga. The marriage occurred on April 16th. The publication was a surprise to the friends of the contracting parties.

Ringgold Will Be Here in Force.

RINGGOLD, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—In reply to the question if Ringgold would be represented at the world's fair convention, to be held in Atlanta on May 6th, Major Whitsett said that the entire city council will be present. The board consists of W. J. Whitsett, J. R. Cravens, T. M. Gordon, J. M. Combs and R. J. Jones.

A New Paper Appears.

HEPHZIBAH, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—The Gibson Record, a new and newsy weekly has made its appearance. It is owned and edited by Colonel K. I. Hawkins, and is issued Friday of each week. It ought to succeed, as its able editor is worthy of full support by the people in the narrow-gauge country.

The Best State in the Union.

BLUE RIDGE, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—Hon. J. H. Witzel, representative of this county, has returned home, after an extensive trip through the western states. He is about convinced that Georgia is the best state in the union.

PRESTON'S HED-AKE

IT WILL BE BUILT.

MACON WILL RAISE THE BALANCE OF THE MONEY

Needed for the Completion of the Macon and Atlantic Railroad—Other Macon News.

MACON, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—The light of hope dawns on the Macon and Atlantic railroad, and this line may soon be out of the hands of the receiver. This is one of the roads that the Macon Construction Company undertook to build, and spent about $1,000,000 on the work of construction. It was proposed to run it from Macon to Savannah. A great deal of work been done on it, and, if Macon now subscribes only $180,000 the road will be completed at a near day. The Macon and Savannah Construction Company was organized with a capital stock of $1,000,000, of which the Macon Construction Company agreed to pay $500,000. The balance of stock was subscribed in Savannah, New York and other northern points. The Macon Construction Company paid in only $320,000, leaving $180,000 unpaid. All of the entire million dollars has been actually paid in except this $180,000.

Today the Macon stockholders of the Macon and Savannah Construction Company held a meeting, at the office of Treasurer H. L. Jewett, and it was decided to raise the sum of $180,000 in Macon.

AGAIN AT THE HELM.

President W. C. Bass Will Remain in Charge of Wesleyan Female College.

MACON, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—As predicted in THE CONSTITUTION several days ago would be the case, Rev. Dr. W. C. Bass has been re-elected president of Wesleyan Female college for the next ensuing three years. This evening the executive committee of the board of trustees met and decided to re-elect President Bass. This action will have to be confirmed by the entire board of trustees at their annual meeting at the commencement of Wesleyan next June. President Bass has been at the head of Wesleyan sixteen years, and prior to the presidency he was for years a member of the faculty. President Bass's administration has been popular and very efficient, and the friends of Wesleyan are pleased to see him continue in control of Wesleyan, the oldest chartered female college in the world.

Married.

MACON, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—Today at noon Miss Clara B. Dunlap, the handsome and charming daughter of Captain S. S. Dunlap, was united in marriage to Mr. Claude Manning Badgley, of Albany, N. Y.

DOWN THE EMBANKMENT.

A Terrible Accident, with Six Lives in Jeopardy.

COLUMBUS, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—At 9 o'clock this morning a frightful accident occurred, in which a party of six had a miraculous escape from a painful death. Henry Spinx, Dan Miller, Buck Terrell and three children were on their way to Columbus from Phœnix City in a wagon, when crossing the bridge over the railroad, just above the trestle across the river, the horse became frightened, and commenced backing and kicking. The driver could not control him, and before the party could jump from the wagon the horse had backed over the embankment twenty-five feet high, where horse, wagon and occupants were tumbled in a terrible wreck. The horse was badly injured and the wagon literally smashed to splinters, but strange to say not one of the six occupants was killed. All were more or less hurt.

IT WAS RED PEPPER.

And It Came Very Near Putting an End to a Merry Dance.

GRIFFIN, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—During a dance at the courthouse in Griffin, finely ground red pepper was thrown into the room from the outside, and its effects were fatal to the progress of the dance. The local papers denounced it as an outrage which cannot be excused, and there is great indignation in the community on account of it. Efforts are being made to discover the guilty parties.

The Sibley Factory.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—The Sibley factory stockholders, in annual meeting today, re-elected President William C. Sibley; secretary and treasurer, J. W. Chaffee, and directors, Samuel Keyser, New York; Walter Smith, Cincinnati; Dr. A. H. Baker, Joseph H. Day, C. H. Howard and John Harper Davison, of Augusta. The mill is in a better position than for years. Fewer goods are on hand, and there are more orders than goods. After paying dividends for the year, there will still be, on May 1st, to the credit of profit and loss $119,008.76.

A Guard Falls Dead.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—An escaped convict and a dead guard furnish Augusta's sensation today. C. E. Williams, recently sent to the chaingang for shooting Fireman Foster Sherlock, in a gambling row, made good his escape, but was closely pursued by Guard Floyd Thomas, well known as Polk Thomas. The excitement and heat of the run, or apoplexy, overcame Thomas, and he fell dead. Williams has not been recaptured. Thomas was nearly fifty, very stout and liked by everybody.

The Children Are in Luck.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—The children of Dr. Harrison Foster are in luck. Their uncle, Hon. C. E. Robertson, an immensely wealthy bachelor, has just died in California, and they are in it as heirs.

The Tax Collector Short.

BLUE RIDGE, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—Mr. A. W. Stone, tax collector of Fannin county, is short with the state and county about $2,000. His bondsmen will make good the deficit.

DEATHS IN GEORGIA.

ROSWELL, Ga., April 29.—Mrs. Eliza Berry died near Milledgeville on the 24th instant, and was buried at Willow cemetery near this place. Elder J. G. Evans conducted the funeral services.

FROM OUR NOTEBOOKS.

Directors of the Exposition.—Secretary Arnold has issued a call for the regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Piedmont Exposition Company which will be held at the exposition office, 38½ South Broad street, today, April 30th, at 7:30 o'clock p. m.

He Is Quite Sick.—Mr. Charlie E. Currier, the popular cashier of the Atlanta National bank, is very ill. Mr. Currier has many friends who will learn of his sickness with deep regret and hope that he may speedily recover.

It Did Not Materialize.—Drs. Miller, Nicolson and Kendrick, representing the medical colleges of Atlanta, have returned from Madison, where they went to hold a conference with the representatives of the medical colleges of Augusta. The latter not appearing, no conference could be held.

Off An Open Switch.—On the Georgia Pacific railroad, yesterday morning at 7 o'clock, a passenger train ran over an open switch at Howell's station, derailing several cars. The conductor was painfully, but not seriously, bruised. None of the passengers were injured beyond a severe shaking up.

Unsound Mind.—Anna Wilson, a fifteen-year-old white girl, was taken in charge of the police last night. She was found wandering about the streets. The girl says her home is in Anniston, Ala., and a telegram from that place was found in her possession. She is out of her mind, and will be sent back to Anniston today.

Company B.—Tonight is the regular weekly meeting of Company B, at the armory, No. 28½ Decatur street. It is desirable that there be a large attendance, because of the fact that the new uniforms are ready, and those who ordered them will be expected to come forward with the money to pay for them.

Sales Postponed.—Two real estate auction sales which were to have been held yesterday were postponed. One of the sales was advertised at Angier avenue by G. W. Adair, and the other by Samuel W. Goode & Co. at Edgewood. Improvements, which were in progress at Angier avenue were not far enough advanced, and Colonel Adair declared the sale off for that reason. No special cause is given for the postponement of the sale at Edgewood.

Several Damage Suits.—J. B. Phillips has filed a suit for $20,000 against the Chattahoochee Brick Company, for injuries sustained in a wreck on the Eilaville branch of the Columbus Southern, while in the employ of the company which built the branch.

Daniel Franklyn brings suit against the Thomson-Houston Electric Company for $2,000, on account of being hurt while getting off a car of the Fulton County Street Railway Company.

Charles Jones wants $5,000 for being run over by a car on the same line, from the same company.

Jacob Burch sues the Metropolitan Street Railway Company for $2,500, for injuries sustained in being thrown from a car while getting on at Hunter street.

COMING TO ATLANTA.

The Davy Crockett Boys Tell of Their Proposed Trip.

The Davy Crockett Hook and Ladder Company has issued a very pretty prospectus of its grand excursion from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., to Atlanta on October 5th.

It has been the custom of the volunteer fire organizations of Poughkeepsie to make an annual trip. This year it was decided to visit Atlanta, Chattanooga and other interesting southern points.

The committee on arrangement, after its visit south in January, returned, after deciding to leave Poughkeepsie for Atlanta on the day selected, proceeded here direct, making the run in about thirty-six hours. The invitation to them and the hospitable treatment received here by the Gate City Guard, has had much to do with their trip to this section.

The historic ground between Chattanooga and Atlanta will be carefully gone over, and all attractive spots visited. Their reception here will be in accordance with Atlanta's way, and while no programme has yet been arranged it is needless to mention that everything for the company's comfort and pleasure will be carefully attended to.

The prospectus pays a high compliment to the Gate City Guard—its high rank, its proficiency, the quality of its members and its splendid armery.

Atlanta is not overlooked.

"From a small village," it says, "reckoned by its population at the close of the war, it is now a thriving, bustling city of 75,000 inhabitants, and justly termed the great metropolis of the south. Hundreds of people from all parts of the country, with their capital and enterprise, have made it their home, and in hearty co-operation with the most energetic and wide-awake people of the south, located there, the Gate City shows a most wonderful advancement in every avenue of business and social life. Every inhabitant, from the most humble mechanic to the most influential and wealthy resident has the one great ambition ever uppermost in mind, to make Atlanta the greatest city in the country. Such a public spirit cannot fail to make itself manifest in the rapid improvement of the place, and, therefore, it is no wonder that Atlanta is the flourishing city that it is."

Its various attractions are then mentioned and the splendid condition of Atlanta shown.

The entire trip of six days, including everything from start to finish, will cost but $60. This will entitle those going along the vast amount of entertainment during that time, accommodations at the best hotels and the benefits of sights innumerable.

It will prove a memorable occasion.

MR. MARTIN ALL RIGHT.

The Reports About that Sunday Fire Contradicted.

The fire of Sunday is still a matter of discussion in the eastern part of the city.

But Mr. Martin, who was pretty severely criticised because of alleged failure to permit the use of his telephone for the alarm, seems to be all right.

Yesterday a large number of prominent citizens from that vicinity testified to Mr. Martin's high character. Then Manager Gentry, who investigated the matter, gave him the following:

"ATLANTA, Ga., April 29, 1891.—J. B. Martin, City.—Dear Sir: In reply to your inquiry, would say that I have questioned the lady operators on duty Saturday night, and they say you called them up between 6 and 7 o'clock Sunday morning, and said there was a house on fire. They connected your number with No. 412 telephone at No. 1 engine house; heard you say there was a fire on South Boulevard, but that you talked in an excited manner, and they cannot say that you were understood. All four of them say you called at that time. A few moments afterwards No. 721, police headquarters, called for No. 412, and a minute after that some one else began calling, but was excited and did not give his number. After a number of tests they found he was at No. 1134, and connected him with No. 412, No. 1 engine house. Your alarm came in several minutes ahead of the other two, but may not have been understood. Yours truly, W. T. GENTRY."

MR. BOLTON'S LECTURE.

A large audience listened last night to the second lecture of Dr. Bolton, "The Midnight Sun," at the Gate City Guard's armory.

It was beautifully illustrated, and greatly enjoyed by those present. Mr. Bolton's lectures are much more delightful than any others of their kind, and should be heard by everybody in Atlanta.

Mr. Bolton's last and, perhaps, his best illustrated lecture at the Gate City Guard's armory, at 8:30 o'clock sharp this evening, is entitled, "The Four Napoleons."

The evening opens with the presentation of heroic Corday, who stabbed to death Marat, the French tyrant. This and other terrible events led to the Napoleonic dynasty.

The audience will visit Corsica and the island of Martinique, birthplaces of Napoleon and Josephine; trace the meteor flight of Napoleon to dazzling heights, thence to his final exile on the lonely island of St. Helena; palaces, parks and monuments in Paris identified with the Napoleons will be visited; the lives of Napoleon II, III and IV closely studied, also the divorce of Josephine will be reviewed, and lovely Eugenie, the Spanish bride of Napoleon III, will be seen. The whole review of the ambitious Napoleons gives promise of a rare evening.

ABOUT THE CAPITOL.

Eighteen Hundred Applications for Widows' Pensions.

Yesterday was a dull day at the capitol, as is usually the case during the absence of the governor.

However, Colonel Tip Harrison is still tugging away at the applications for widows' pensions, which arrive in increasing numbers daily. There are 1,800 applications in up to date, and it is now quite certain the total number will not stop short of 4,000, and then the legislature, which only provided for the payment of 600, will have to provide some means by which all can be paid, or there will be a long and loud cry of disapproval from one end of the state to the other.

Some Commissioned Officers.

J. G. Holtzclaw was yesterday commissioned second lieutenant of the Perry Rifles.

W. A. Torrence was commissioned first lieutenant of the DuBignon Volunteers.

C. E. Winman's resignation as second lieutenant of the Atlanta Zouaves was received.

BISHOP HENDRIX COMING

To Formally Dedicate the Mission That Bears His Name.

Bishop Hendrix Mission will be formally dedicated next Sunday.

Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock Bishop E. R. Hendrix, of Kansas City, will arrive in Atlanta on the Western and Atlantic road. At the depot he will be met by Rev. W. Dunbar, the pastor of the church, Presiding Elder Heidt, and other Methodist ministers of this city.

Sunday morning at 10 o'clock the dedicatory services will be held at the mission, conducted by Bishop Hendrix, this being his eighty-third service of the kind. In the afternoon he will be present at the dedication of the Temperance hall, 85½ Alabama street. Sunday night he will occupy the pulpit at the First Methodist church.

During his stay in Atlanta Bishop Hendrix will be the guest of Mr. E. M. Roberts.

Woman's Missionary Society.

The Woman's Missionary Society will meet this afternoon at the First Methodist church, instead of tomorrow afternoon, as was first announced. The change was made on account of tomorrow being May Day.

At the Opera House.

Huntley's Dramatic Company presented "Only a Tramp" at the opera house last night. The company will appear again tonight.

A HAPPY PARTY

IT WENT TO CHICKAMAUGA LAST MONDAY.

Who Composed the Party—The Transformation of the Old Battlefield Into a Beautiful Park.

CHICKAMAUGA, Ga., April 29.—[Special correspondence.]—On Monday, the 27th, a special train, composed of five coaches and an engine, was taken by Messrs. W. B. Lowe, J. T. English and George W. Parrott, from their city. The Columbus Southern was run from Atlanta to famous Chickamauga, taking many Atlantians as guests of the company to the land of the on the 28th and 29th. Among the party were Captain and Mrs. J. W. English, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Parrott, Mr. and Mrs. Shuff, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kingsbery and Mrs. Henry Smith, Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Palmer, Mrs. Mary E. Horne, Mrs. Richards, Miss Nellie Black, Mr. Edward Palmer, Mrs. McCabe, Mrs. Gordon, Mr. W. W. Draper, Miss Mary Draper, Colonel Goode Hill, Mr. Sid Phelan, Mr. Dave Freeman, Colonel Jesse Walters, Colonel J. D. Williamson, Mr. W. Towers, Mr. Joe Wyatt, E. Richardson, Colonel Boyd, of Griffin; Mr. Judson Clements, who represents the government in having the work started on the national park; Mr. Charles Ryan, Colonel Fabrick and Mr. James W. English, Jr., whose thoughtfulness adds so much to the pleasure of the party.

How pleasant it is to be free from care with a happy, congenial party, who are determined to enjoy everything—where there are no fussy women or cranky men—where all can laugh it" and laugh over delays or inconveniences—where the men have laid aside their formalities and business look to enjoy a holiday. It makes one long to do away with the stupid conventionalies of life and live this immortal, natural, better way forever.

The Chattahoochee Brick Company built in months the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus railroad—140 miles in length—over which came through fertile valleys, and by verdant, mineral-laden hills—always grand with their lights and shadows. It is said that along this road and among these hills hard was the last section of our state in which the Cherokee Indians lived.

We passed the Dirtcellar mountain, over which are layers of fine iron ore, which is being shipped to Birmingham, Anniston, Pennsylvania and other points. At Chickamauga we were simply astonished to find a $60,000 hotel with water, electric lights, pretty furniture, deliciously sweet, comfortable beds, handsome carpets, electric bells, and every convenience. A view from this hotel, with its many windows and spacious verandas—which add the greatest delight and comfort to any southern hotel—commands a magnificent view of the historic and picturesque country surrounding it. The pure water in the hotel is from the immense Crawfish Spring, which furnishes 62,000,000 of gallons of water in twenty-four hours—ten times as much water as Atlanta uses. It would furnish sufficient water for a city as large as Chicago. This water is twenty degrees cooler than river water—ordinary water is seventy-five or eighty degrees—this is fifty-two degrees temperature, and would take less ammonia to freeze than ordinary river water in making ice. It seems that beer and ice companies would find this a profitable place for investment.

The Crawfish Springs Land Company proposes to furnish coal very cheap. They own 2,000 acres of coal land, and this coal for coking purposes for producing iron is said by the finest mineralogists to be richer in fixed carbon than the Pocahontas, of Virginia, or the Durham coal, of England—which ranked highest in the world until this was discovered.

The company owns twenty-six miles of red phosphorous ore, which is the best iron ore for steel, because it has so little silicon; it is also excellent for making car wheels and for a high grade machinery iron.

The company is building a standard gauge road to their mines on Lookout mountain, which, at its completion, will cost $1,000. The company expects to mine and ship 1,000 tons of coal a day. They own a large tract of excellent grate coal, as well as the coaking coal.

Chickamauga has splendid railroad facilities, being located immediately on the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus railroad, which has recently become the property and is one of the main stems of the Central system of Georgia. The Chattanooga Southern road is nine miles distant, and will run a branch to Chickamauga. The Chickamauga National Park Electric Line Company will run a line from Chattanooga to National park, Fort Chickamauga—making Chickamauga really a suburb of Chattanooga. The St. Elmo extension of the Chattanooga electric line system is building into Chickamauga. The government has purchased 7,500 acres of land adjoining and surrounding Chickamauga, in a semi-circle, which they are now improving. Congress has appropriated $325,000 for the park—which is now being expended in work there. There is a bill before congress asking for $200,000, and another bill is being prepared for $250,000. The government having selected this beautiful spot for the purpose of making a national park, will doubtless expend a great deal of money here.

Each state represented in the famous battle of Chickamauga will contribute a monument to mark the position of their troops on this battle ground. Brigades from Illinois and Indiana which were in command of General Hooker have ordered a monument to mark their position in the battle of Chickamauga which will cost $15,000. New York, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Michigan and Iowa have made appropriations for like monuments.

The Central railroad is building a magnificent new depot here at a cost of $12,000.

The company will build coke ovens very soon. They are negotiating with a company to put up a plant for car works, ice factory and locomotive works. In thirty days brick works will be in course of construction and the company will furnish brick for those who build at Chickamauga at $4.50 per 1,000.

The company has spent about $400,000 in improvements ready for these great sale days. The winding drives are splendidly macadamized with fine gravel, and are like shell roads. The entire place is a magnificent and beautiful park, elevated and beautiful, and commands a view of hills, valleys, streams and mountains, which fill the soul into a perfect rapture of appreciation.

It will be a matter of interest to our people to know that our own enterprising and honored, level-headed citizens, Captain J. W. English, Mr. W. B. Lowe, Mr. George Parrott, Mr. Samuel Parrott, who is the splendid superintendent, and Mr. James English, Jr., are prominent in developing this grand enterprise. They have as their associates, Mr. Alfred Sully, Simon Borg & Co., bankers of New York; Hon. Abram S. Hewitt, Lehman Bros., Messrs. John C. and Pat Calhoun, Colonel J. D. Williamson, president of the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus railroad; General J. T. Wilder, Keyser & Co., bankers of London; and Mr. Gordon Lee, who is the efficient and popular secretary and treasurer.

The sales for the first day amounted to $73,150. Lots were bought by many prominent people from Georgia, South Carolina, Tennessee and Alabama, many of whom will build summer homes at once.

Eighteen hundred people attended the sale. Mr. Stephen Ryan, of Atlanta, bought the first lot.

One of the great treats of our trip is the delightful music by the Fourth Artillery band, employed for the occasion.

THE FLAG OF THE FOURTH GEORGIA.

Interesting Memorial Exercises in Sandersville—The Old Flag.

SANDERSVILLE, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—Colonel Beverly D. Evans, Sr., delivered the memorial address in Sandersville.

Then followed the recitation of the, "Canteen," by Miss Weddon, which was most beautifully and gracefully rendered.

The confederate battle flag of the Fourth Georgia regiment was used in the services. Crowds of veterans with tears in their eyes gathered around this relic of the days that tried men's souls. A history of the flag was read by Captain W. C. Matthews. After this Miss Clara Park, in a beautiful and most impressive manner, recited the "Conquered Banner," Captain Matthews slowly furling the banner as she recited this touching poem.

After the services all repaired to the cemetery, and for an hour were engaged in strewing flowers over the graves of our soldier dead.

To Ensign James F. Murphy, of Atlanta, and to Colonel Evan Howell and Judge R. L. Rodgers the Memorial Association is largely indebted for their aid in securing for their use the old battle flag. These two last named gentlemen were once citizens of this county, going to war with the Washington county boys, and from the many and kind inquiries and good wishes expressed for them, one could almost imagine that he heard the echoes of Howell's battery from the fields of battle.

THE STORY OF THE FLAG.

This battle flag was once the standard of the Fourth Georgia regiment, Doles's brigade, Rodes's division, Stonewall Jackson's corps of that grandest of all armies, the army of northern Virginia, and this gentleman to whom I now introduce to you—Ensign James F. Murphy—born in the city of Boston, of Irish parents, and coming to the south when a mere boy, was the bearer of this flag all through the war, receiving five painful wounds under its folds. The flags at first borne by the regiments in the field were the stars and bars but owing to the difficulty of distinguishing them in battle from the stars and stripes led to a change being made, and the adoption of the battle flags of which this is a counterpart of all the rest.

In the hands of this gallant ensign this flag was carried in the center of the Fourth Georgia regiment from Norfolk to Lee's mills, where it received its first baptism of fire. Then, at Seven Pines, and all through the seven days' fight at Mechanicsville, Cold Harbor, Savage Station, Frazer's Farm, White Oak Swamp and at Malvern Hill.

Up to, and during this last named battle, it was carried on a nicely carved walnut staff, with a spear mounted above its folds; but at Malvern Hill, early in the fight, this staff was shot in two just above the hands grasping it. Seizing it above the break and picking up the piece shot off, he again bore it aloft; again above his hands it was shot in twain, again seizing it above the break of the staff it was again shot in two just below its folds, but nothing daunted this brave ensign, up to that time unhurt, seized it among its folds and held it on high amid a storm of bullets and cannon shot, and around it the Fourth Georgia rallied and followed her gallant ensign to victory.

Preserving the pieces of the staff he and General Doles, then colonel of the Fourth Georgia regiment, put them together binding them at each break with silver bands. The staff was then sent to Milledgeville for safe keeping and today is preserved in the armory of the Baldwin Blues an honored and a silent but eloquent testimonial of gallant deeds by gallant men.

WITH A NEW STAFF.

From Richmond on to Manassas and Chantilly and from thence across the Potomac to Frederick City and Harper's Ferry and back to Sharpsburg this flag all the way was borne and fluttered to the breeze. At Sharpsburgh one by one the gallant defenders fell bravely fighting, and at nightfall on that terrible day only a few were left alive and able to flaunt with it defiance to the foe. Among that few was our gallant ensign here, and to whom, for his gallantry in that fight, General Doles presented with a handsome sword that he had taken from a captured officer.

In the battles of Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville this flag was borne into the thickest of battle, and when the gallant army of Lee went on that ill-fated expedition to Pennsylvania, in 1863, this flag was among the first to be borne across the Potomac, and it waved as far north as the Susquehannah, in sight of Harrisburg.

On that first day's fight at Gettysburg this flag was the first to mark the alignment of Ewell's corps as they emerged from the woods to the left of Seminary Ridge, and was borne through the city after the fleeing yankees.

At Spottsylvania Grant's lines, with greatly superior numbers, made such a heavy assault on Rode's lines that they were forced. Just as the retreat commenced, our gallant ensign fell severely wounded, and in the confusion of retreat was forgotten. Realizing that this flag would fall into the hands of the enemy—although he was unable to get on his feet—he stripped this flag from its staff, and folding it up he hid it under his gray jacket and threw the staff as far from him as he could. Grant's lines, flushed with victory, passed over him, never for a moment thinking that beneath the jacket of that wounded confederate was a trophy that was worth more to them than any other prize they could have taken. Later in the day the tide of battle changed, and Gordon's division retook the lines and recaptured our ensign with his colors still under his jacket.

After this battle another flag was substituted for this one, and this was sent to Milledgeville, Ga., to Mrs. General Doles for safe keeping. When Sherman passed through on his famous march to the sea this flag was quietly resting deep down in a well, just above the water, and behind the curbing. After the death of Mrs. Doles, she left the flag to Ensign Murphy, telling assured that he who had received five wounds in carrying it through the storms of battle would be the proper custodian for it in the future.

CUT THIS OUT.

BIRTHDAY STONES.

JANUARY.
By those who in this month are born
No gem save Garnets should be worn;
They will insure you constancy,
True friendship and fidelity.

FEBRUARY.
The February born will find
Sincerity and peace of mind;
Freedom from passion and care
If they the Amethist will wear.

MARCH.
Who, on this world of ours, their eyes
In March first open shall be wise;
In days of peril, firm and brave,
And wear a Bloodstone to their grave.

APRIL.
Those who in April date their years,
Diamonds should wear, lest bitter tears
For vain repentance flow. This stone
Emblem of innocence is known.

MAY.
Who first beholds the light of day
In Spring's sweet flowery month of May,
And wears an Emerald all her life,
Shall be a loved and happy wife.

JUNE.
Who comes with summer to this earth,
And owes to June her day of birth,
With a ring of Agate on her hand,
Can health, wealth and peace command.

JULY.
The glowing Ruby should adorn
Those who in warm July are born;
Thus will they be exempt and free
From love's doubts and anxieties.

AUUGST.
Wear a Moonstone, or for thee
No conjugal felicity;

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
DRY GOODS, CARPETS, FURNITURE AND SHOES.

The period of the world's history through which we are now passing may fitly be termed the age of competition. In the commercial world it seems that every man's hand is against his neighbor's. We are brought face to face with a fierce struggle in many cases for existence. No firm can escape the biding law of modern commerce. They will have to put their best foot forward to keep their old customers and make new ones. The only legitimate way for any firm to do this is to cultivate confidence between the customer and itself. This can only be done by treating customers fairly and looking honestly after their interests. This course we adopted twenty-six year ago, and which we shall and will follow as long as we are in the trade We handle only such goods as we can honestly recommend. We take no chances on shoddies or auction goods. We invite all kindsof competition. We feel pleasant to all and certainly we can afford to do so as our trade is growing continuously larger and larger. This season larger than last, and so on, as it has been from the beginning. Our capital is ample and we, in every way, save to the trade by discounts, etc., hence we can and do sell good goods in many instances as low as some pay for lower grades. Let it be noted by the trade that we will not sell shoddy goods, but any child can buy from us good goods as low as the most veritable shopper can buy them elsewhere. See our goods before placing your orders. The prices will please you.

The Unpopularity of Gold.

Of all currency gold is the most unpopular in business circles.

A Washington correspondent of a western paper says that sometime ago he met a merchant who complained that a debtor had paid the sum of $3,000 in gold. If the amount had been in greenbacks the merchant could have paid the money into his bank and received credit without delay. But the gold gave him trouble. The bank declined to credit him with the sum total because some gold coins when worn are not worth their face value. The man of business rushed over to the treasury and tried to exchange the coins for notes. The officials made the same objection, and finally weighed each coin, making the merchant wait an hour. Then three coins were handed back to him with crosses on them to indicate that they were short weight, and he was directed to send them to the mint, where he would receive their actual value.

The merchant informed the correspondent that business men generally objected to gold. Knowing that the government is perfectly good for its promises, they prefer treasury notes as a matter of convenience.

Gold is chiefly valuable as a circulating medium in countries which are subject to frequent revolutions and changes of government. It is treasured in such countries by the people because they distrust their governments. A wealthy nation with almost unlimited credit, and with a stable government, is so little dependent upon gold that it is not obliged to make it a single standard.

Such a nation can easily run a double standard of gold and silver, and it can very safely issue great quantities of paper money. So long as the world has faith in a strong government and a wealthy country back of it, people prefer promises to pay instead of payment itself.

Reasons for Free Coinage.

A correspondent wants us to go somewhat into the silver question and explain to him why free coinage is necessary. He says that he is a good democrat, with no prejudices against those who are for free coinage. The matter, however, is not clear to him, and he wants light.

If our correspondent had been a reader of THE CONSTITUTION during the past ten years, or if he had had the nerve to study the question for himself, he would not be under the necessity of making such inquiries.

To make the matter entirely clear to a seeker after knowledge it would be necessary to go into the history of the matter, and we have not time for that. Our correspondent, however, will do well to bear in mind that the demonetization of silver in this country—that is to say, the closing of our mints against the free coinage of silver bullion—was the result of a disreputable trick on the part of certain republican congressmen, who were in collusion with the financial agents of Great Britain. There was not the slightest necessity for this demonetization, and no demand for it except on the part of certain bankers with British connections. This disreputable trick has resulted in an abnormal financial condition, which the people have been trying to correct.

We can not give a better reason for the free coinage of silver than to quote from the report of Secretary Manning, who was head of the treasury under Mr. Cleveland. The abnormal condition which is the result of the demonetization of silver Mr. Manning calls "the monetary dislocation." It is a somewhat vague term, but it will do. "It is a direct consequence of the monetary dislocation," says Mr. Cleveland's secretary, "that wheat of India, which there fetched 3 rupees per quintal fourteen years ago, and there fetches 3 rupees per quintal today, can be sold in London, cost of transportation apart, for as little as the gold price of 3 rupees in London today—a fall of 25 per cent. The lowered price of wheat in London has had to be met by a lower price of the American wheat in London. The prices of our surplus wheat (that which is exported) determines the price of the whole wheat crop of the United States. So that the monetary dislocation (the demonetization of silver by the United States) has already cost our farming population, who number nearly one-half the total population of the United States, an almost incomputable sum—a loss of millions upon millions of dollars every year."

What Mr. Manning says of wheat is equally true of the price of cotton. A comparison of the prices of wheat and cotton with those of silver will prove conclusively that the cereal, the staple and the metal go up and down together. If we add the losses of the wheat producers to what the cotton planters have lost by reason of the demonetization of silver, the amount certainly becomes "incomputable," as Mr. Manning declared.

And yet, although Mr. Cleveland's secretary of the treasury made this overwhelming and unanswerable argument in favor of the free coinage of silver, he was not in favor of free coinage. He made the argument to show why it was necessary for the United States to enter into entangling financial alliances with foreign countries. He was even opposed to the monthly coinage of $2,000,000 of silver under the Bland law, and wanted to still further cheapen our cereal and staple crops by repealing the act. It is rare that so logical an argument has so futile an application. Yet the argument stands, and it is unanswerable.

There is still another reason for free coinage. It is only one of many that could be brought forward, but we select it because it is not often dwelt on by those who discuss the matter. It is this—that the free coinage of silver will to a great extent relieve the government of the necessity of engaging in the business of distributing the circulation. At certain seasons the banks in and about Wall street call on the treasury to come to their aid and dump money into their pockets. Whenever this occurs there is invariably a financial crisis on hand, and more or less uneasiness throughout the country.

The free coinage of silver will carry money into the legitimate channels. The government will not own a dollar of the money that is coined. The bullion coined will find its way into circulation, and, to that extent, relieve the government of employing the treasury as a bank. The silver bullion will be coined on private account, and the money will find its way into business in a natural way.

If our correspondent will study this question he will find it interesting, and we hope to be able, from time to time, to give him further hints and suggestions.

Bones Are Bones.

Now that we are about to celebrate the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus, people are very naturally looking up the great navigator, or, to speak with more precision, they are hunting for what is left of him.

It is a matter of history that the bones of Columbus are in Havana. But it is also a matter of history that they are in Santo Domingo City. This is rather confusing, and Captain Nathan Appleton, of Boston, who has been investigating the question, throws no light upon it. The captain says that nobody knows anything about it. He found the bones of Columbus at both places. Both cities are confident that they have the genuine article. It is believed that the remains of Columbus and those of his brother Diego were mixed some centuries ago, and no living man can tell which is which.

After all, it makes no difference. In the course of a few hundred years the dust of prince and peasant is just the same, and very common earth it is. It makes no difference where the mortal remains of Columbus are entombed. One set of bones will do as well as another. The fact is, bones are bones, and nothing more.

Pool Rooms Here and There.

New York and Atlanta are determined to suppress the pool rooms.

Under a state law the city of New York has closed the pool rooms, and Atlanta has done it by refusing to grant licenses.

At last accounts Atlanta is a little ahead. She has downed the pool sellers. In New York it is different. A recent decision of the supreme court holds that a commission or common carrier business is not a violation of the law against pool-selling. Under this decision the pool men have started again, calling themselves "commission dealers" and their places of business "commission houses." They propose in consideration of a commission to place money at the track by telegraph.

It remains to be seen how the New York dodge will pan out. It is plainly a subterfuge to evade the law, and the court of appeals may at any time so construe the statute that this device to get around it will be knocked in the head.

This is the situation at present. In New York the pool sellers are on top as "commission dealers." In Atlanta they are squelched by a city ordinance. Our ironclad laws and direct methods are very simple, but they cannot be successfully dodged. But in the metropolis every statute and ordinance appears to be so loosely drawn that it amounts to nothing. The way to suppress pool sellers is to suppress them. When the New Yorkers once get this into their heads they will have no further trouble.

Financial Relief and Reform.

We print elsewhere a communication from Dr. James B. Hunnicutt, assistant commissioner of agriculture, touching the condition and prospects of our farmers. It is a very interesting and suggestive article, and covers, in brief space, some important matters. With respect to our material development, Mr. Hunnicutt finds that there is one great drawback, and that is the scarcity of money. "There is not enough currency to do business legitimately," he says, and those who are careful observers will agree with this conclusion.

The business of the country is so hampered by this scarcity of money—a scarcity that is the result of republican laws passed at the dictation of the banker-speculators of Wall street—that every interest suffers except that of the financial institutions which have money to lend. Whenever there is an imperative demand for money to move the crops of the south and west to market, there is straightway a tremendous flutter in Wall street, which develops into a panicky feeling. The treasury, having developed into a huge banking house which seems to have for its purpose the absorption of the money of the country, is called on for assistance.

Under our financial system, which is rotten to the core, the treasury has the facility of absorbing money, but no facility for getting rid of it. It can only respond to the demands for assistance by calling in and paying a premium on bonds that are not due. As the bonds are mainly owned by the national banks, which have them deposited as collateral for their notes, every purchase by the government means a contraction of the currency. This contraction has been going on steadily, until the people, especially the farmers, have begun to discover what is pinching them.

They have made the discovery, but there can be no relief for them if there is any half-hearted or halting action on their part. The people should insist on the measures of financial reform that have already been outlined by the leaders and representatives of the democratic party. They should insist on the free coinage of silver first and foremost as the readiest and promptest method of securing financial relief by increasing the volume of currency. They should insist on a reduction of tariff taxation as a means of keeping their money in their pockets, and they should insist on divorcing the treasury from Wall street and its disreputable methods.

A Notable Speech.

The address of Editor Pleasant A. Stovall on Memorial Day in Augusta was a masterly oration.

We do not remember a speech of the same length in which the confederacy is so logically and eloquently vindicated. Mr. Stovall grouped the facts of history with admirable judgment, and massed them in an impregnable position. He drew a graphic picture of our old-time civilization, with its brave men and fair women, its soldiers and statesmen, and showed that slavery and secession were fastened upon the southern states through no fault of theirs. He made it plain that our civil war was not a rebellion, but was in the nature of a revolution.

Altogether, it was a statesman-like speech, sparkling with gems of rhetoric, and carrying the truth of history in every rounded and sonorous sentence.

This effort crowns Mr. Stovall with new laurels, and he richly deserves the tributes with which he is overwhelmed on all sides.

Rates to the Drummers' Convention.

The Southern Travelers' Association has applied for a rate for one fare for the round trip from Atlanta to Augusta to attend the meeting of the association at the latter place on the 4th of May next.

The railroads should very promptly grant this request. Two years ago, when the association held its meeting in Savannah, the rate was $5 for the round trip between Atlanta and Savannah, which was less than 1 cent a mile. We do not see any reason why the city of Augusta or the drummers should be discriminated against at this time. The boys only ask for a one-fare rate for the round trip, which is almost twice as much as the rate that was given to Savannah. If any class of travelers are entitled to a low rate, it strikes us that the drummers are.

It is to be hoped that the railroads will allow the reduced rate asked for. It is said that the Georgia railroad is willing to grant it if the other railroads belonging to the pool will permit. As the Central gave the rate to Savannah of $5 for the round trip, it cannot, of course, object to the higher rate asked for to Augusta.

THE LOTTERY COMPANY'S victory in the Louisiana supreme court simply means that the constitutional amendment legalizing it will be voted on by the people instead of being killed by the governor's veto. The people will probably ratify the amendment, as the lottery proposes to contribute many millions of dollars to the state for public objects, but the stringent legislation of congress will make it very difficult for the concern to push its business in other states. It is all right. If the people of Louisiana want a lottery they are entitled to it. In fact, it is no worse than many forms of speculation now permitted by law, and people might as well lose their money in it as to lose it in some other risky way.

THE MELON CROP.

THE GROWERS MEET IN CONVENTION IN ALBANY.

Forty-four Thousand Acres Under Cultivation—The Rates and the Question of Distribution.

ALBANY, Ga., April 29.—[Special.]—The meeting of the Georgia Melon Growers' Association was one of the largest ever held. Delegates were on hand from all parts of the melon belt, from Macon to Quitman. The crop is so much larger than ever before, that the growers are anxious to perfect means for its distribution. The question of rates is already settled on last years' basis of 8 mills per ton mile to Ohio river points, and all that remains to be done is to grow the crop and market it.

Looking to the question of distribution, Chairman McRae called upon representatives of the exchange to offer suggestions. Mr. Jones, of Macon, a purchaser of 400 cars and also a grower, suggested that all shipments go through the hands of a melon exchange, and that steps be taken to organize such a corporation.

Mr. O. M. Howser, of the Macon produce exchange, expressed surprise that a gentleman living in the same city should have overlooked an organization already in business, equipped for doing just the work he had outlined. Mr. Howser then suggested that the growers ship through the Macon produce exchange all melons they could not sell on the track at home. The exchange had made arrangements with the commission men in 200 towns and cities to sell watermelons, and Mr. Howser suggested that such cars as could not be sold at home be shipped to some one of these 200 houses, the melon grower to select his own market, but to advise the exchange of the shipment and destination, and then turn over the further managment of the melons en route to the Macon exchange, giving it the right to change the destination of the melons when it might be known that the markets shipped to were glutted.

Mr. Forrester thought this plan would not work, as it would be impossible to get melon growers to surrender control of their melons to anybody until the fruit was sold.

Mr. Howser replied that it would be impossible for the Macon produce exchange to distribute the crop well unless it had control of the shipments. It would be glad to have consignments from the growers of this section, and would do the best it could for them, but as the plan had been adopted with reference to the future of the exchange, and for the purpose of securing melon shipments from the neighborhood of Macon, and as melons had already been secured from that district, the plan could not now be changed.

On Mr. J. L. Hand's motion, a committee was appointed to select the commission house to which the melon growers should confine their shipments.

Mr. Hand and Mr. Forrester emphasized the idea that by confining shipments to one commission house in an ordinary market, and five at the most in the largest cities, the other commission men would be forced to come here and buy melons on the track. That was the object sought to be accomplished.

THE REPORT ON SHIPPING POINTS.

The committee was appointed by suggestions from the different shipping points, adopted by the chair of the committee as follows:

P. W. Twitty, of Camilla, chairman; M. Carter and A. H. Nelson, of Meigs; John W. Haygood, of Montezuma; John G. McPhaul, of Poulon; W. B. Roddenbury, of Cairo; W. R. Bunkley, of Leesburg; S. J. Hargrove, of Adams; T. J. Glausier, of Baconton; W. H. McPhaul, of Isabella; H. Denard, of Ocklocknee; W. C. Twitty, of Pelham; George C. Cochran, of Flint; A. P. Vason, of Albany; H. C. Quarteman, of Metcalfe; J. C. Stonaland, of Boston, Ga.; L. H. Rockly, of Whigham; Mike Brooks, of Richland; Crawford, Stegall, of Bainbridge; Ralph Singleterry, of Plae; W. R. Pitman, of Thomasville; A. H. Nelson, of Meigs; W. H. Giradeau, of Monticello, Fla.; Judge J. L. Storry, of Sumner; F. F. Putny, of Hardaway; C. E. Alligood, of Shoeheel; C. M. Bacon, of Dewitt; Dr. G. F. McCrimmon, of Rochelle; W. A. Buchanan, of Blakely; J. W. Lowry, of Dawson; W. R. Talley, of Dixie; Edward Young, of Quitman, and the Macon produce exchange.

This committee meets in two weeks. It was stated that the southern railroads had been notified by those north of the Ohio river that in less the growers stopped shipping unmarketable melons, the freight rates would be raised. In some cases railroads have to dump the melons and lose the freight charges, consequently they would have to raise the rates to cover that loss. It was the sense of the melon growers present that a rigid inspection of melons by the railroads at shipping points would keep bad melons out of the northern cities, and do much to prevent the markets from being glutted.

BIG MELONS ONLY.

By a rising vote the association pledged itself to ship no melons under eighteen pounds, and adopted a resolution requesting railroads not to accept for shipment melons under eighteen pounds, deformed, sunburnt, green or overripe, without the prepayment of freight charges.

The question of distribution of the crop being under consideration, the representative of THE CONSTITUTION was asked by Mr. Forrester to explain the system of daily advices by which this paper proposes to help the melon growers market their crop. This was shown to be by the collection of melon shipments by wire from the different roads in the melon belt, and the publication of the consolidated returns, showing each day how many cars were shipped to each market from the whole melon-growing region. Supplementary to this was to be a table showing the aggregate of such shipments to each point for the preceding six days.

Mr. J. L. Hand said this would be excellent if it could be gotten out to the shippers quick enough for use in the next day's loading. He suggested that for three years the Savannah, Florida and Western railway had put up daily bulletins at all its melon stations, showing the number and destination of all cars shipped from that road on the day previous. If all the roads would do this, and the information could be made to include shipments from the whole melon region, this, with the publication of the same information in THE CONSTITUTION, with a consolidation of every day for six days, would go far to help the problem of distribution.

In this view Major Bacon and Mr. Forrester concurred.

THE MEETING ADJOURNS.

After some further discussion, the convention adjourned to meet in Albany on the 3d of June, just before the shipping season opens.

The committee to select commission houses will meet here today two weeks, and will submit a report to the association on the 3d of June. Before the association adjourned, Major Harnes, of the Savannah, Florida and Western railway, was called on, and made some timely remarks. He said that when the business first began, five cars of melons glutted the market in Savannah. Sixteen years ago, a train load of melons sent west and accompanied by a committee had to be given away. Last year, his road alone handled 3,000 cars successfully, and would handle 6,000 cars this year. He pledged his road to do for the melon growers what it had done in the past.

Mr. Wilburn, of the Georgia Southern and Florida road, said his people would do everything in their power to facilitate the movement of the crop. They had furnished shipments to the papers, and would do so again. Colonel John A. Davis, representing the Central railway, while giving due credit to the Savannah, Florida and Western for the bulletin system, said the Central took it up last year, and would do so again. He spoke strongly of the identity of interest between the railroads and the shippers. The meeting was a profitable one, and there is a general feeling that a system of prompt information will solve the distribution question, and the railroads have all caught the idea. Mr. Joe Davis, the secretary of the association, estimates the crop planted at 44,000 acres.

GENERAL STATE GOSSIP.

The Tribune-of-Rome has this entertaining gossip of the presence of Captain Kell in that city on Saturday last:

Captain Kell was in Rome not long ago. He was standing in the marble-tiled office of the Armstrong hotel, talking to a young fellow who wore the uniform of the Hill City Cadets. "Who is that tall, heavily-bearded man conversing with that boy?" inquired a friend of mine. "That," said I, "is a man in whose presence I make it a rule to take off my hat. That is Captain John McIntosh Kell, the most modest man in the world, and yet one of the most intrepid and one of the most gallant fighters that ever trod the deck of vessel armed for war upon the high seas." "What!" was the response, "is that the Kell of the famous Alabama?" "That is the man," I replied. "Introduce me!" I introduced him; but, as he himself will testify, he could say nothing but, "I'm very glad—I'm very glad!" Captain Kell did not notice his embarrassment, but I did. Afterwards, I said to my friend: "You had but little to say to Captain Kell." "Yes," was the reply, "I couldn't talk; I could do nothing but think of the Alabama. Face to face with the man who was her 'fighting' officer, I felt too small to talk." They are building a monument in Mobile to perpetuate the memory of Semmes. Captain Kell bore the burden of all the Alabama's thrilling fights—why should not Georgians perpetuate his "face and form" in marble in the capitol of their state?

The editor of The Talbotton New Era warns a belligerent subscriber to keep away from his office. Some time ago he was attacked by a young man who was a member of the choir. The editor had written a harmless squib, which was that the young men who sung in the church choir should not eat peanuts, onions, herrings and smoke cheroots. One young man got very indignant when he read it, and went to the office and began to abuse the editor, and finally struck him over the head with a walking cane. This enraged the editor, as well as the printers and "devil." They simultaneously grabbed him and stuck his head in the ink keg. When they pulled him out he was a changed man. He begged pardon and cried for mercy. He was requested to leave. He said he disliked to appear on the streets with the ink on his face and head, and importuned for soap and water. He was granted this privilege after subscribing for six copies of the paper and paying in advance. When the kind-hearted editor and "devil" got through washing his face with lye and cutting his hair with a column rule he looked somewhat crestfallen. This unlooked for catastrophe, however, made a different man out of him afterwards.

The last issue of The Waycross Headlight contained this curiously pathetic and suggestive statement:

Before us is a note brought by the city marshal and signed by the clerk of council, informing us that unless we pay for the cemetery lot in which our boy was buried last summer, within sixty days his remains will be moved to the potter's field. The lot ought to have been paid for before, but with several hundred dollars' worth of accounts for subscription, advertisements and job printing, which we have failed to collect, six months of sickness since its purchase, it has not been, and the council as a body is only doing its duty in the collection of cemetery dues. Those who have had the labor of ourself and that dead boy in the past, and have not paid for it are the ones responsible for this threat of degredation. They are the careless and indifferent ones that would cause the whitening bones of as faithful a boy as ever lived to do his duty to the public, to be borne to the potter's field, and the flowers on his humble grave, watered by the tears of mother and sisters, to be torn asunder. If you owe us, and can pay, now is the time to do so.

A ferro-manganese furnace has been decided upon for Rome. A number of capitalists have the matter under serious contemplation, and the furnace will be established at an early date. In speaking of the benefits of such an enterprise a wealthy and experienced man said to a Tribune reporter: "It costs $5.50 to ship to certain northern points that ore which is made into the most valuable iron and steel metals. Sometimes the carloads taking that ore carry tons of useless ore so far as that grade of metal is concerned, and consequently there is a loss.

"Now, if the pig was made here all that might be saved, for instead of shipping the dead ore we would ship the pig.

"For instance; say we ship so many tons to Pittsburg, costing us $5.50 freight, a large portion of which is useless in making the grade we desire. Wouldn't it be a great saving to make the metal here?"

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The Training of Teachers.

MARIETTA, Ga., April 28.—Editor Constitution: The state teachers' convention at Brunswick will have many questions of importance to discuss but none, I believe, of more importance than that of the training of our public school teachers.

Of all the agencies to this end the county institute has proven the most efficient. No statistics as to the training of teachers of Georgia have been prepared. Rhode Island, after careful inquiring, found that of her public school teachers 4 per cent were college graduates, 62 per cent high school and academic, 21 per cent normal and 13 per cent had received only a common school education.

I have no idea that Georgia could show as good a record. Fully 85 per cent of our teachers are furnished by the secondary schools. From the best information I can obtain not over 20 per cent of our teachers reach the first grade, 50 per cent the second grade and 30 per cent the third grade.

The question arises, "What can be done to improve this large class of teachers, and how can it be done the quickest?" Normal schools cannot do the work. The 300 normals in the United States, turning out 3,000 teachers annually, cannot do the work for the 300,000 teachers.

College graduates are practically out of reach, owing to the small salaries paid and the shortness of the term.

A state institute held at Salt Springs, Atlanta or at any other place will not do the work, for the teachers cannot pay their necessary traveling expenses and board. I am confident that the money expended during the past years to sustain the state institute for the trainig of public school teachers was wasted; for the state's teachers did not come because they could not come. How can we expect teachers that we pay from $75 to $300 per year to spend from $20 to $40 attending the state institute at Salt Springs? The only speedy and practical way of remedying the defect is in a state system of county institutes. Georgia must come to it, and I hope the coming convention will influence our legislature to incorporate the county institute in our school law. All of the states except twelve—Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Mississippi, Missouri, New Hampshire, Oregon and Tennessee—have well organized county institutes. Twenty-two make appropriations for the same. According to Mr. Boone, no less than 150,000 teachers receive annually an average of six days' instruction by means of these institutes. Every city system has its normal; why should not the county?

The expenses are from $5,000 to $10,000 a year.

Cobb county held one last year, with an average attendance of sixty county teachers. There was scarcely a teacher in the county that did not attend, some of them riding from ten to twenty miles a day. Let the state convention memorialize our state commissioner and legislature to adopt the county institute.

The Police Serve Them with Notice ... Their Goods on the Inside So as Not ... Obstruct the Sidewalks.

Atlanta merchants are kicking ... enforcement of an ordinance passed ... last meeting of the council.

Alderman Woodward is the father ... obnoxious law.

The ordinance, which is to prevent obstruction of sidewalks, provides:

That no person occupying any store, stall or other place of business shall obstruct the walk in front of the place so occupied by ... the view from the street to or across the ... by placing goods of any kind on or over the walk, or allowing such goods to remain on such sidewalk longer than is really necessary to get the goods or other articles into or away from such places of business, in receiving or delivering such goods or articles.

Section 2. Any person violating this ordinance shall be subject to a fine not exceeding ... imprisonment longer than thirty days, one or both in the discretion of the court.

Yesterday the ordinance was transmitted to the chief of police, and, by his order, ... the men as they went on duty.

PREACHERS' MEETING.

THE CAREY RESOLUTION STILL UNDER DISCUSSION.

Rev. Dr. Lee, When Called Upon, Feels that the Time Has Come When He Can, with Propriety, Express His Views.

That preachers' meeting seems destined to furnish gossip for some days to come.

Upon the first publication of the alleged proceedings of the meeting there was a feeling that perhaps the affair was not as represented. The question of holding the services on Sunday had been fully debated by the Confederate Veterans' Association, composed of Colonel Lowndes Calhoun, Major J. H. Ketner, and other conservative men. They had come to the conclusion that honor to the memory of the fallen braves, who died with their eyes resting upon the floating war flag of the confederacy, was in keeping with the sacred day upon which it fell this year. They argued that the solemn influence of the Sabbath would lend a character to the services which would lift them far above the plane possible on a week day.

When, however, THE CONSTITUTION of this morning made public the statement of Rev. Mr. Carey, confirming in every essential the previous report, there was considerable talk. Mr. Carey had advocates as well as critics, but, for the most part, the veterans disagreed with him.

It will be remembered that Rev. Dr. J. W. Lee, who took part in the services, and who was credited with the rather warm speech reported in the preachers' meeting, refused to speak when first approached, alleging that the question was one which should be confined to the preachers' meeting. He was again asked yesterday if the statement of Mr. Carey did not free him from this scruple.

"I regret," said Dr. Lee, "that there should be manifested some disposition to reflect on the courage of those who oppose the use of Sunday as a memorial occasion. In answer to a possible application of the card this morning, signed 'Confederate,' to Rev. C. C. Carey, I want to say that Mr. Carey was too young to have been in the war, and I can say further from what I know of him, that had he been old enough he would have been at the post of duty and danger to the last. He is sincere, and terribly in earnest in all that he does."

"What were the objections urged against the services of last Sunday," Dr. Lee was then asked?

"First, that there was a procession, but the only way to get to the cemetery was to proceed. If Sunday is to be kept by putting an end to all processions, we would be under the necessity of lying abed all day. We proceed to breakfast, we proceed to church and in fact keep proceeding all day if we are on our feet. A procession gets its character from that which it is proceeding to do. If men, in military order, or in any other way, proceed to a beer garden or to a baseball game, or to any other place of merely worldly amusement on the Sabbath, it would be a desecration of the day; but when men proceed to a church, or a tent, a camp ground, or to a cemetery, for the express purpose of holding a religious service, it is perfectly in keeping with the purpose for which the day was ordained.

"Another objection was that the brass band was used, but a brass band is like a procession—getting its character from the kind of music it makes. If the instruments are used to play unholy airs, such as minister only to earthly feelings, then the use of the band for such music would be a violation of the Lord's day. But if the band is used to play religious music, such as calls forth the elements of praise and worship, then it is proper for use on the Sabbath. Brass is as pious as the elements out of which our organs are constructed, and it is not thought improper to bring majestic strains of music from them on the Sabbath.

"But it is said that the men had on uniforms? In answer to that, military companies have frequently appeared in some of our most prominent churches where they were addressed by the pastor who happened to be their chaplain. It is a matter of almost every Sunday occurrence to see funerals at which Masons, Odd Fellows, Red Men and others appear in uniform. The cannon present were but the silent reminders of the days that tried men's souls, and were the necessary accomplishment of an artillery company, as rifles were of the infantry."

"Do you think the Carey resolution will come up again?"

"I sincerely hope not. I cannot believe that they will ever see the light again. If brethren who propose to press these resolutions could see some of the letters I have received concerning this matter, and from the saintliest men in this city, it seems to me that they would feel that they were wounding the holiest and tenderest memories our people cherish, in protesting against their holding religious services over the graves of their dead comrades on the Sabbath day.

"There was nothing wrong about the service last Sunday. It was a beautiful, solemn, helpful service. All the resolutions or protests, of any meeting or convention, could not convince rational people that it was wrong to sing and pray at the graves of dead confederate soldiers on a Sunday afternoon. It is to me a matter of profound astonishment that a single individual lives in the southern states who thinks so. This is all that I care to say upon the subject at present."

Mr. Carey Sustained.

St. John's church held a call meeting last night.

And the action of their pastor, Rev. C. C. Carey, was sustained.

Present at the meeting were several confederate veterans—members of the association. One of these it is claimed read the following resolution; all of them supported it.

They were:

Resolved, That we heartily endorse our pastor, Rev. C C. Carey, and the resolutions offered by him at the preachers' meeting, disapproving the selection of Sunday for the customary memorial parade in Atlanta, and regret that there should be any difference of sentiment among Christian people about it. We are sorry it was ever deemed necessary or appropriate by some good men whom we love and respect, and we view with deep concern the tendency to adopt continental ideas and Sunday practices as dangerous innovations, subversive of our Christian Sabbath—stepping backward instead of forward in the glorious march of the gospel of Christ.

The resolution was discussed and then adopted.

Rev. Mr. Carey then spoke to the members of his congregation:

"I thank you heartily," said he, "for this action, altogether unsolicited by me. While my action on this much discussed resolution was not taken with a view of securing the endorsement of any one (and it would have been the same if I had thought you would have disapproved it), yet I would be less than a man if I did not appreciate the endorsement and sympathy of the good people whom I serve. It is indeed a personal gratification. I do not seek newspaper notoriety, and altogether too much prominence has been given to the matter in public print.

"My mind is fully settled as to the impropriety of using God's holy day for a public parade in connection with memorial exercises over the confederate dead. I am southern-born and thoroughly southern in all my feelings and sympathies; not so much, however, as to go contrary to the fourth commandment and approve a thing which could easily have been postponed till Monday, and which was done in every other place where Memorial Day was observed, but Atlanta. Neither my southern sympathies nor the abuse and insinuations of those who differ with me shall drive me from the position I have taken, or induce me to approve a thing I conscientiously regard as a desecration of God's holy day. In my position I am fortified by the fact that the state makes Monday the legal holiday when Memorial Day falls on the Sabbath.

"Enough has reached my ears to assure me that this Sabbath parade meets the disapprobation of large numbers of Sabbath-loving and Sabbath-keeping Christians, among them many confederate veterans.

"For Dr. Lee I have the kindest feelings. While he used unguarded language, tending to reflect upon me, on the occasion named, he was too much of a Christian gentleman not to regret it on sober second thought, and as soon as the preachers' meeting adjourned he made an ample and full apology to me privately, and withdrew all he had said which was objectionable. Again, I thank you for this action sustaining my course in the premises.

Before leaving the church many of the members stepped forward and congratulated their pastor.

A Card from Judge Rodgers.

EDITOR CONSTITUTION: We have observed in the papers the discussion of our confederate memorial exercises on last Sunday.

It appears that some zealot or bigot has become awfully distressed about it, and seems to have concluded or resolved that Sunday ought to be a day in which the sacredness of confederate memories should be "more honored in the breach than in the observance." For one, myself (and I know that I express the sentiments of many others), I beg leave to say that Sunday is as good a day to remember and to honor confederate soldiers, who died in our cause, as any other day of the week; and the 26th day of April is as good as any other day in the month for appropriate exercises in such a cause.

Some time ago, when the matter was first discussed amongst the veterans, it was then thought that Sunday would be a suitable day. I had the honor of entering into the spirit of the discussion, and I am glad that I was the movant of the resolution which proposed that our association should enter into the exercises of Memorial Day, on Sunday, and that the resolution was unanimously adopted. We are also glad that no member of the association has yet been found who protests, and we are also glad that such action has been sanctioned and approved by good men and women here and at other places.

When our brave men were in deadly conflict on many Sundays, they were in earnest, battling for the right, in all good conscience then, and we do not know of any good reason now why we may not honor their memories on Sunday.

We have observed that one reverend gentleman has endeavored to stir up discord about the exercises of the occasion. He objects to the parade of men in uniforms, to the caparisoned steeds, and to the heavy rolling artillery. Well, with old soldiers the artillery was all right, and it was a day of glory, and they were proud to honor departed heroes on a sacred day.

To those who find fault we may only repeat the pleading invocation of the Blessed One, who gave freedom to man, and so gave us Sunday, "Father, forgive them; they know not what they do."

We might say something severe in characterizing such fault-finding as nonsense, but such it seems to be before many who are good and true.

Perhaps some squeamish individual might find objection to a funeral on Sunday, because people dress up, and ride in carriages, and take a corpse in a fine coffin to a cemetery.

Perhaps some may think more of the day, than of the way, but if the good Lord will let the years roll on, and let the sun shine upon good will and good deeds in memory of things which stirred brave men to noble daring, as often and as long as the 26th day of April, Memorial Day, shall fall upon Sunday, surviving veterans will venerate the day by appropriate exercises, in sacred memory of the "Lost Cause," and of the brave and honorable heroes who died to make it otherwise, and they will teach their children to venerate the men and the cause, and the Memorial Day, whether a sanctified preacher or a prating parrot favor it so, or not.

* * * * "They never fail who die
In a great cause; the block may soak their gore,
Their heads may sodden in the sun; their limbs
Be strung to city gates or castle walls;
But still their spirit walks abroad. Though years
Elapse, and others share as dark a doom,
They but augment the deep and sweeping thoughts
Which overspread all others, and conduct
The world at last to freedom."

Let us honor our brave heroes every day, and on Sunday, too. ROBERT L. RODGERS.

THE ALLIANCE LECTURERS.

They Will Be Selected May 6th—Preparing for the Rallies.

The district lecturers of the Farmers' Alliance will be selectected May 6th.

On that day, at some point in each of the congressional districts, representatives from all the county alliances in the district will meet and choose a lecturer for the district.

The meeting in the fifth district will be held in Atlanta.

On the 13th, the district lecturers will hold a meeting in Atlanta to formulate plans for their work and to advise with each other, in order that all the county alliances may be instructed in the same way and unanimity of thought and purpose prevail throughout the state.

"Never before in the history of the alliance has it been so thoroughly organized," says Colonel Livingston, "and I know of no organization that in all its branches is so perfectly connected. All the lecturers, from the state lecturer to the suballiance lecturer, instruct the members in the purposes of the order, without any jar or conflict of opinion.

"During the summer grand rallies will be held at a number of places in the state. The rallies will embrace nine or ten counties; prominent alliancemen from the east and west will be present and deliver addresses. Among them will be Jere Simpson, of Kansas, Harry Tracy, of Texas; Dr. C. W. Macune, or President T. T. Polk, from the east—perhaps both—and other noted alliancemen.

"Bringing large numbers of alliancemen together will create enthusiasm; but that is of little benefit. The good to be accomplished will be that southern members will better realize that their fellow alliancemen of the east and west are working with them to accomplish a common purpose."

Colonel Livingston will deliver addresses at a number of similar rallies in the east and west. The alliance leaders are exchanging work and building up kindly feeling and closer relationship between alliancemen throughout the United States.

MR. STEWART'S CASE.

The Mission Board Agrees to a Plan of Settlement.

The board of missions of the north Georgia conference, which met in Atlanta, has finished its labors.

After other matters had been disposed of, the board took up the consideration of the case of Mr. J. S. Stewart, former treasurer of the board.

The case was thoroughly gone into, and then the following settlement was given out for publication:

The Settlement.

We, J. S. Stewart, late treasurer of the board of missions, and W. P. Lovejoy, as chairman of the executive committee, agree to the following plan of settlement:

Amount of indebtedness as ascertained by the auditing committee to be due the board	$ 13,640
Settles at 50 cents on the dollar	6,820
To be paid as follows:
Cash	$ 1,500
Balance in seven annual payments	5,320
	$6,820

Notes to be negotiable paper, and to bear interest at 7 per cent after maturity. All credits hereafter ascertained as due J. S. Stewart to be allowed on his notes.

The "T. D. C." Picnic.

The first club picnic of the season will be given by the "T. D. C." at Vining's next Saturday. It is needless to predict that it will be one of the most pleasureable events of the picnic season.

The committee consists of S. C. Dean, W. H. Kiser, G. W. Adair, jr., W. Tidwell, P. S. Daniel.

The chaperons will be Mrs. J. H. Porter, Mrs. W. L. Peel, Mrs. Edward S. McCandless, Mrs. J. S. Raine, Miss Annie Adair, Miss Annie Nash.

THE GRAND CHAPTER.

THE ANNUAL MEETING BEGUN YESTERDAY.

The Royal Arch Masons—Election of Officers and Other Work—Jason Burr Council.

The annual convocation of the grand chapter of Royal Arch Masons of the state of Georgia was opened in the Masonic hall in this city yesterday morning at 10 o'clock.

There were present: James W. Taylor, grand high priest; Thomas Ballantyne, deputy grand high priest; A. M. Lambdin, grand king; J. A. Stewart, grand scribe; W. B. Daniel, grand treasurer; A. M. Wolihin, grand secretary; A. J. Leet, grand chaplain; H. C. Burr, grand captain of the host; G. L. Johnson, grand principal sojourner; S. E. Grow, grand royal arch captain pro tem.; J. B. Smith, grand master third veil; E. E. Pound, grand master second veil; J. Z. Lawshe, grand master first veil; Jay D. Edwards, grand sentinel.

There were present a full corps of past grand officers and a large number of grand representatives of sister grand chapters of the United States.

The growing prosperity of the royal craft in Georgia was well illustrated by the full attendance of delegates from the subordinate chapters, and this convocation is the largest that has assembled in the state since organization of the grand chapter.

All Royal Arch Masons in good standing were invited to seats in the grand chapter.

The grand high priest delivered a very able and eloquent address, reporting his official acts, paying a feeling tribute to the memory of those who have gone to join the great majority beyond the river. His report shows the unprecedented prosperity of the craft, and that peace and harmony prevail throughout the jurisdiction, which holds pleasant fraternal relations with the capitular world.

The address was well received by the grand chapter, and, as is the custom, was referred to a special committee for the distribution of the subject matter therein contained to the appropriate standing committees.

Dr. William Abram Love, chairman of the committee on foreign correspondence, submitted his annual report, reviewing the proceedings of all the grand chapters of the United States and the Canadas, which report was received and ordered printed in the proceedings.

The grand high priest then, through the grand secretary, announced the standing committees.

On motion, it was resolved that the annual election of officers be made the special order of business for 10 o'clock this morning.

The grand chapter was then called to refreshments, to meet again this morning at 9 o'clock sharp.

The tables in the banqueting rooms were kept well supplied with refreshments by Mount Zion Chapter, through her indefatigable committee of reception and arrangements appointed to that work.

After the adjournment of the grand chapter, there was opened immediately

The Grand Council.

Henry C. Burr, grand master; William Abram Love, deputy grand master; Orlando McClendon, grand past chief warden; A. M. Wolihin, grand secretary and treasurer; A. L. Wood, grand captain of the guard; Thomas Ballantyne, grand conductor of the council; Ira M. Swartz, grand steward; Jay D. Edwards, grand sentinel.

The council was duly opened. All royal and select masters in good standing were invited to seats in the grand council. The committee on credentials reported the names of the companies representing subordinate councils, whereupon the grand master delivered his annual address.

In his report of his official acts and visitations, he gave a hopeful outlook for the cryptic craft of Georgia, and spoke a word of encouragement for the select few who have this work in charge.

The address was well prepared and well received by the companions, and on motion was referred to the committee on general business.

This committee having been appointed, the council was called off until 4 o'clock p. m.

At that hour the grand council was called to labor. The officers and members were present as before. The grand council being opened, William Abram Love, grand representative of the grand councils of South Carolina, of Vermont and of Ohio, reported extending the fraternal greeting of the companions of these several states.

The election of officers for the ensuing Masonic year, resulted in the following:

Henry C. Burr, grand master; William Abram Love, deputy grand master; Orlando McClendon, grand past chief warden; A. M. Wolihin, grand secretary and treasurer; A. L. Wood, grand captain of the guard; Thomas Ballantyne, grand conductor of council; Ira M. Swartz, grand steward; L. W. Freeman, grand sentinel.

The committee on general business made their report pertaining to the affairs of the craft, which was received and adopted.

There appearing no further business, the grand council was closed until the next annual assembly.

Jason Burr Council.

After the grand council was closed, an assembly of Jason Burr Council was opened and the cryptic degrees conferred on the candidates by the general grand officers exemplifying the work.

The High Priests.

At 8 o'clock p. m., the council of the order of high priesthood was opened with the following officers: A. M. Lambdin, president; William Abram Love, vice president; F. M. Brantley, chaplain pro tem.; A. M. Wolihin, recorder; J. Z. Lawshe, master, of ceremonies; Orlando McClendon, conductor; J. E. Redwine, herald; C. E. Damour, guard.

The council being opened, the order of high priesthood was conferred on thirteen candidates, after which the council proceeded to the election of officers for the ensuing Masonic year, which resulted as follows:

A. M. Lambdin, president; William Abram Love, vice president; J. M. Mobley, chaplain; A. M. Wolihin, recorder; W. B. Daniel, treasurer; J. Z. Lawshe, master of ceremonies; Orlando McClendon, conductor; H. V. Lester, herald; J. T. Colcord, guard.

After attention to business matters pertaining to the order, the council was duly closed.

Fits, spasms, St. Vitus dance, hysteria, headache, neuralgia and nervous prostration cured by Dr. Miles' Nervine. Free samples at druggists, by mail 10c. MILES MED. Co., ELKHART, IND.

A REWARD FOR NAPIER.

Who Murdered Joel Holmes in Clay County Last Week.

Governor Northen has offered a reward of $100 for the capture of Eli Napier.

Napier is the man who foully murdered Joel M. Holmes down in Clay county last week.

The county officers wrote the governor that Napier had escaped into Alabama, but a reward of $100 would in all probability lead to his arrest.

The correct story of the murder, as written to the governor, is as follows:

Mr. Joe M. Holmes lived on and ran a plantation five miles above Fort Gaines, and among his hands were a negro boy and negro woman, who had ran away from Henry county, Alabama, and taken up their abode on his plantation. They had formerly lived on John Whidden's plantation, in Henry county, Alabama.

Whidden wanted the hands to return, but Mr. Holmes was on one's bond for a later trouble and refused to let them go. Whidden seemed determined to secure them, and sent out a spy to locate the prize; it was accomplished, and Tuesday was the day set apart to move the negroes back to Alabama. Whidden, thinking he would have trouble in doing so, induced three, Messrs. Bob Norris, Eli Napier and George Ozburn, to go with him up to Holmes's plantation. But before starting for the scene of action they all imbibed freely in mean whisky, and armed themselves.

They drove up to Mr. Holmes's place about 5 o'clock in the afternoon and immediately commenced loading the effects of the negroes into a wagon. Mr. Holmes came up while they were thus engaged and demanded an explanation.

Whidden announced that he had come for the negroes and was going to take them. Holmes objected on the ground that the negroes were in debt to him, and that they were anxious to remain with him. There were some words. Whidden called Holmes a liar, and they clinched. While Whidden and Holmes were fighting some of the latter's friends came up, and immediately the Alabama crowd with Whidden commenced firing upon the Georgians. Mr. Holmes's friends were Will Alexander and Lee Barnett. Alexander was shot in the leg by Napier. As he fell Mr. Holmes's brother Charles rushed up, and attempted to pull Whidden off his brother. But as he did so Napier pushed his pistol against Holmes's head and fired, killing him almost instantly. Then the Alabama crowd beat a retreat, firing as they retired. Alexander received five flesh wounds.

The Alabama gang, with the exception of Whidden, who received a slight flesh wound from one of his own crowd, escaped uninjured into Alabama.

Whidden, Norris and Ozburn were, however, captured the next day by a Georgia sheriff and brought back, and the chances are that the reward will lead to Napier's arrest.

TWENTY-FIVE CARS

Will Be Needed to Carry the Grocers and Their Friends.

The grocers' picnic will not be held on May 13th, as originally intended.

Sufficient cars to carry them and their friends could not be furnished for that date, and at a request of the officials of the Georgia Pacific road to postpone the picnic to some time after the 16th, the affair will take place on Wednesday, the 20th.

The committee has arranged for twenty-five cars to accommodate the large crowd, will furnish music for the occasion, and have perfected all arrangements necessary for the comfort of all going along.

Invitations and all notices will be out by tomorrow.

New Telephones.—As will be seen from an advertisement in another part of the paper, fifty-one new telephone subscribers have been added to the exchange during the month of April. This speaks well for the city and for the telephone exchange. This is the largest number of subscribers ever added in one month, and shows the popularity and usefulness of the system.

IMPORTANT HEARING

BEFORE THE RAILROAD COMMISSION YESTERDAY.

Colonel Stahlman Tells Why Freight Discriminations in Favor of Terminal Points Should Not Be Interfered With.

There was an important hearing before the railroad commission yesterday.

And all the prominent traffic men of the various railroads were present.

By an act of the last legislature the railroad commission was instructed to find out if there was any discrimination by the railroads of the state engaged in interstate traffic between freight rates for intermediate and terminal points in favor of the terminal points, and if so the commission should call the attention of the roads to the same. Then if the roads failed to rectify the existing rates, to report the same to the interstate commerce commission through the attorney general.

In order to carry out the provisions of this act the commission summoned all the railroads engaged in interstate traffic, to appear before the commission today to explain the cause of such discrimination.

There were present Colonel E. B. Stahlman, representing the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis; Major Shellman and Major Whitehead, of the Central; Captain Tyler and Mr. Lutz, of the Atlanta and West Point; Major Greene, of the Georgia; Colonel C. W. Wrenn, Mr. Davan and Mr. Fitzgerald, of the East Tennessee; Mr. Joseph M. Brown, of the Western and Atlantic, and others.

Colonel Stahlman was selected as the spokesman of the party. "His speech was a perfect gem," to quote the language of the other railroad men, who in turn, one after another, announced that he had covered the ground so thoroughly that it would be useless for them to add anything to what he had said.

Colonel Stahlman acknowledged that there was discrimination in favor of terminal points as against intermediate points, for, said he, nature and competitive lines have made it so. But, he said, there was no unjust discrimination. The act of the legislature provided a penalty simply in cases where there was unjust discrimination. "Take, for instance," said he, "as an illustration, the towns of Savannah and Milledgeville. Water lines via Baltimore or New York compete with us for western business. We are compelled to meet that, but that is no reason why we should not make some profit on our freight to Milledgeville. Again," said he, "take Atlanta, that has spent thousands of dollars to get the roads she has, and take some way station between here and Birmingham that never contributed a dollar to get the road. Should not Atlanta get a better freight rate from the west than the small town that gets practically no freight and contributed nothing towards the building of the road?"

In this strain Colonel Stahlman went on for nearly two hours, concluding by citing many decisions of the interstate commerce commission where they refused to compel roads not to discriminate in favor of terminal and coast points.

The other representatives present added but few words to what Colonel Stahlman said. The commission took no action, but it was the general opinion of those present that the commissioners would not interfere with the present rates between Ohio river points and points in Georgia.

Mrs. Wiley's Work.—Yesterday Mrs. Wiley entertained a large and appreciative audience at Park street church, and at night she spoke at Walker street church. Her theme in both instances was a plea for help to carry the gospel into the frontier towns. This morning she will be at Grace church, and in the afternoon at St. Paul's, which will be the last of the series of meetings that have been productive of great good in awakening interest in the work with which she is identified.

Housekeeping Made Easy.

We believe that you will be interested in knowing that our trade is growing larger and wider every day. There is hardly a day passes that some one does not add their name to our list of patrons. Now, just ponder over the following facts, and you will see the reason, and we trust will permit us to add your name to the list:

1st. We have the largest stock of fine groceries in the city.

2d. You can find what you want; our variety is endless.

3d. We buy direct from the manufacturers, and hence can sell cheaper.

4th. Our large trade insures fresh goods.

5th. Everything is kept scrupulously clean.

6th. Our delivery is prompt and reliable.

7th. We guarantee every article sold and will cheerfully refund the money or replace anything, bought of us if not in every respect satisfactory.

8th. We study the wants of each customer, and every effort is used to save them trouble and worry.

9th. We keep only the best quality of goods.

Now, is not housekeeping made easy when you can order what you want of your grocer and be sure of getting it fresh and of the very best quality, and at a reasonable price? And that is just what we claim to do. Ask any of our customers as to the above facts, and we are sure that they will substantiate them; or adopt a still better plan and try us yourself and you will soon be convinced.

It is a well-known fact that upon all special suppers or occasions we have been called upon to supply the greater portion of the delicacies served. The reason is they can get what they want from us, and be perfectly sure of the quality.

To our patrons out of town we would say that their orders will have careful packing and prompt shipment.

It is also a pleasure to answer letters of inquiry about goods or to quote prices.

Don't fail to write us if you want anything in our line. You will be pleased both as to quality and price. W. R. HOYT,

LYDEN-WILSON.

A BEAUTIFUL WEDDING AT THE FIRST METHODIST CHURCH.

A Brilliant Event at Which Atlanta Society Was Present—News of Society—Gossip About People You Know.

The Lyden-Wilson wedding at the First Methodist church last evening was one of the most beautiful ever seen in the city. The large church was filled to overflowing with invited friends. The decorations of the church were entirely in white and green, the altar being banked with many tropical palms and exquisite Easter and calla lilies.

To the grand strains of the "Wedding March" the bridal party entered, as follows:

Ushers—Judge Samuel Lumpkin, Mr. Hoke Smith, Mr. W. L. Peel, Mr. J. Carroll Payne, Mr. Porter King, Professor W. W. Lumpkin.

Groomsmen—Mr. Sherwood Higgs, of Baltimore; Mr. James R. Black, of Baltimore; Mr. Eugene Mitchell, Mr. Lawrence R. Bratton, Dr. Charles D. Roy, Mr. Will Black, Mr. James Carlton, Mr. J. H. Lumpkin.

Bridesmaids—Miss Eugenia Rucker, of Memphis; Miss Birdie Coleman, of Macon; Miss Kate Spalding, of Kentucky; Miss Lizzie Winship, Miss Stella Knott, Miss Sallie Hunnicutt, Miss Carrie Thompson, Miss Lillie Orme.

Maid of Honor—Miss Lucy Peel.

First Bridesmaid—Miss Laura Hill Payne.

The bride entered on the arm of her father Dr. H. L. Wilson, and the groom met her at the altar with his best man, Mr. Harry Lee Slingluff, of Baltimore. Dr. Morrison performed the ceremony with graceful and impressive eloquence.

The bride made a charming picture in a superb wedding gown of white bengaline and duchesse lace, en train, with princesse back and a V-cut bodice front. The skirt was finished with a deep flounce of duchesse lace, caught at intervals with bowknots and clusters of lilies of the valley. The Medici collar and long sleeves were finished with the same rich lace and the cloud-like illusion veil was gracefully caught up on the soft waves of brown hair by many tiny pearl pins. Among the jewels worn was an exquisitely chaste and artistic bracelet of heavy gold links, inlaid with blue enamel and a blue enamel daisy with a splendid diamond center for a clasp. The costume was completed by a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white roses, and white, undressed kid slippers and gloves.

The bridesmaids were enchanting in their airy toilets, and especial mention must be made of Miss Lucy Peel, the maid of honor, and little Miss Laura Hill Payne. Miss Peel is a beautiful young girl just in her teens, and she was a wonderfully lovely vision on this occasion. Little Laura was simply lovely, and made the cutest of bridesmaids.

The gowns of the attendants were white pin-dotted organdies, with demi-train skirts, finished with three narrow ruffles. The V-cut bodices were trimmed with lace and white satin ribon, the latter falling in long ends over the back of the skirt. The bouquets were double carnations and French ferns, and pearl-gray gloves and slippers completed the fair toilets.

After the ceremony the wedding party and relatives enjoyed a delightful reception at the home of the bride, on Peachtree. The house was entirely adorned in tropical flowers and vines sent by friends from Florida.

The supper room was in white and yellow. From the chandeliers depended a rich ball of golden roses, and below a crystal globe filled with Marechal Niel blossoms rested upon a circular mirror wreathed in smilax. The table service was entirely of cut glass, and many beautifully iced cakes, and white tapers in cut-glass candelabra, completed the adornments.

Among the friends from a distance present there were Mr. George M. Russum, of Denton, Md.; Mr. Sherwood Higgs, of Baltimore; Colonel Charles H. Effinger, of Lexington, Va., and Rev. G. Calvert Carter, assistant rector of St. Paul's, Baltimore.

In the library the presents were arranged. They were numerous and very elegant.

At 11 o'clock the happy pair bid adieu to their friends and departed for Florida. There they will spend several weeks of their honeymoon, and leave by steamer at St. Augustine for Baltimore, their future home. There they will go at once to live in a beautifully furnished new home, just completed.

Miss Annie McLeod Wilson has every attraction that goes to the making of a sweet, lovable woman. Bright and gifted, she has a true charming nature, that has won the warmest friends and admirers, and the man who has won her is indeed to be envied.

Mr. Frederick F. Lyden is one of the most prominent young busines men of Baltimore, and is a member of one of the oldest and most substantial wholesale firms in the Monumental City. Socially, too, he is prominent, and his bride goes to the most delightful society circles of that city. All who know Mr. and Mrs. Lyden wish them the happiness they are sure of possessing in their future life together.

Colonel and Mrs. Walton, of Rome, are in the city, the colonel being here in attendance upon the meeting of the Masons. Colonel Walton, who was recently made a member of the advisory board, is one of the best known men of north Georgia. His wife is one of the most charming ladies of Rome, and a leader of society there.

"Maud Irving, the Little Orphan," was most elegantly presented at Concordia hall last evening, for the benefit of the Sisters of Mercy. There was a very large audience present, and the play, which was rendered by local amateurs, was very enjoyable. The receipts were large, and the play was a success, from beginning to end.

Miss M. E. V. Dixon and Mr. J. A. Rawlings were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren M. Dixon, near Fort McPherson, Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, the Rev. Dr. J. W. Lee officiating. Only the family and a few friends were present. The bride is a young lady of beauty and many accomplishments, possessing qualities that have gained for her the love and esteem of all who know her and who extend to the groom their hearty congratulations upon having won so charming a bride. The groom is one of the community's most highly respected young men, who has a host of friends here as well as in his former home, Cincinnati. All wish them a long and happy life. Mr. and Mrs. Rawlings leave for Cincinnati, Dayton and other points of interest today, where they will remain with friends and relatives of the groom for several weeks.

Last evening the Earnest Workers of the Central Presbyterian church gave a most delightful entertainment. The instrumental music, by skilled performers, was delightful and the songs and recitations were beautifully rendered. There was a large audience present, and the entertainment was a great success.

W. C. T. U. Conference.

A regular meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union conference will be held at the hall, corner of Peachtree and Marietta streets (entrance 1½ Marietta street), this afternoon at 3 o'clock sharp. Business pertaining to the opening of the restaurant will be transacted and final arrangements for it made. A full attendance is desired. By order of

THE FULTON COUNTY LINES.

The Schedule Arrangements for the Next Few Days.

Owing to improvements being made on the county road, the Fulton County Street Railroad Company will run its nine-mile circle cars as follows:

On Thursday and Saturday, regular schedule to Monte Glade and return.

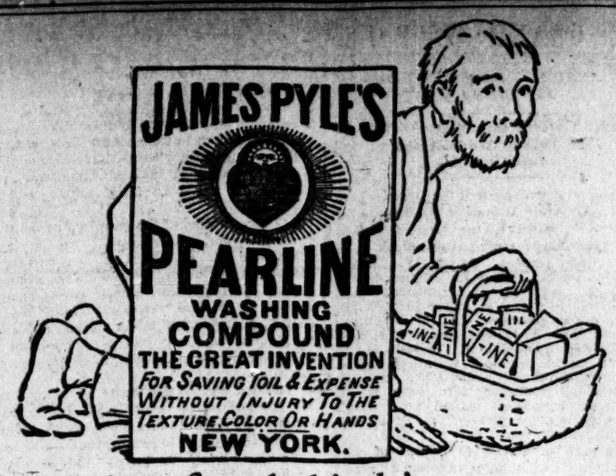

On Friday, special cars will run every fifteen minutes to Piedmont exposition grounds, and ample arrangements are being made to accommodate all wishing a speedy and pleasant ride to the grounds.

On Sunday the nine-mile circle will again be resumed, the cars making the full circle.

But there's nothing ahead of it. The reputation of Pearline covers a multitude of imitations. Their names may end in "ine," but their use may end in trouble. Don't be persuaded that they are "the same as Pearline," or "as good as Pearline." The peddlers who try to sell them will tell you that they are; if you're reckless enough to try them, you will know that they are not. Get your Pearline of some good grocer, for it's never peddled. BUSINESS MEN APPEAL.

A STRONG PAPER ON THE SUBJECT OF THE REVIVAL

Signed by Strong Men—The Tent Has Not Yet Arrived, but May Come Today. Yesterday's Meeting.

The Union revival services were not held at the tent yesterday.

The announcement to that effect at Trinity Tuesday night was made because everything was ready—except the tent itself.

And that was expected to arrive yesterday morning.

But it didn't. It was delayed somewhere near McDonough, and now the time for holding the services therein is uncertain. It may be tonight, and then again not for several days. Everything is dependent upon the tent's arrival.

Crowds continue to assemble at Trinity. Yesterday afternoon a large number were interested in a Bible reading, and at night Rev. M. B. Williams preached an able sermon. There is no doubting his popularity here.

Everyone is looking forward to the tent meetings. That they will be a great success is not doubted.

The Business Men's Appeal.

Here is something characteristic of Atlanta—an appeal from the business men of the city in behalf of the revival exercises,

The appeal speaks more eloquently than any reference to it could set forth. Here it is in full:

The undersigned business men of Atlanta, conscious of their personal responsibility to God and desirous of the moral and religious welfare of our city, call the attention of her people to a series of religious meetings now in progress, under the auspices of the various denominations of evangelical Christians.

A tent, capable of accommodating 4,000 persons, has been erected on the lot immediately in the rear of St. Philip's church. In these services Rev. Mr. Culpepper, the distinguished evangelist, will be assisted by all the Christian ministers of the city. The music will be led by one of the most noted singers of the south. He will be supported by a chorus of 200 voices. We believe that this coming together of the ministers and members of all the churches for the promotion of a cause so pure and sacred will result in great good to our community.

In the midst of material prosperity let us show our faith in the reality of things invisible and divine. "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." Let us come together as a community and strengthen our aspirations and affections for those spiritual treasures which shall abide forever. Let us seek that development of our higher natures which will fit us for usefulness and happiness in this life, and eternal blessedness in the life to come.

SENT TO BRISTOL.

The Body of Miss Carrie Saul Will Be Buried There Today.

The body of Miss Carrie Saul, whose sad death occurred Tuesday, was shipped to Bristol, Tenn., yesterday, and will be laid beside her two elder brothers today.

Miss Saul was a young lady of many Christian virtues of mind and heart. She was the daughter of Mr. S. L. Saul and the niece of Mr. W. S. Saul, of this city.

She was just eighteen years of age, and a few months ago was attacked with consumption, of which disease her mother died a year ago.

She came here from Greenville, S. C., her friends hoping that a change of climate would avert the dread disease. But in spite of the tenderest care and nursing she gradually grew worse until her death occurred.

Up to the last moment she was conscious, and left many kindly messages to her friends. She had long been a member of the Methodist church, and in death expressed her faith in Him who doeth all things well.

The funeral exercises were conducted by Rev. Walker Lewis, at the residence, No. 30 Cooper street, after which the body was shipped to Bristol, by the East Tennessee railroad.

Her father and one little sister remain of what was once a happy family and an ideal home circle.

An Old Painter's Death.

The death of Mr. Patrick Geary, one of the oldest painters in the city, occurred from apoplexy, at his home on Gilmer street, yesterday morning. He was an Irishman by birth, but has been a resident of this city for about fifteen years.

He leaves four children, his wife having been dead many years. The funeral will occur today.

ANDREW NOLAN.

He Will Go to His Uncle's Farm in Fayette County.

Andrew Nolan was again before Judge Newman yesterday morning, to receive the sentence of the court.

What was best for the moral welfare of the boy had been thoroughly discussed by the judge, the district attorney and his counsel.

It was a matter of serious moment to the judge, the future of young Nolan being shaped by his action.

The decision of the court was that, on a quiet Georgia farm with his uncle, Mr. James Henderson, a man of worth and character, the boy criminal would be more likely to undergo a reformation and become a useful citizen than in a reformatory prison.

A plea of guilty had already been entered, and an order was taken permitting defendant's attorney to withdraw the plea, as it was entered "under a mistake as to the tender age and legal responsiblity of the defendant."

The case now stands open on the docket, and Andrew is out on a $300 bond.

If he again violates the law the case will be called. If he acts honest and right it will not be sounded; and, as was remarked, "If moss don't bring him down stones may."

Andrew will accompany his uncle to the country, and will not for many days have the pleasure of attending the criminal courts.

RAILROAD GOSSIP.

NEWS OF THE ROADS AND THE MEN THEY EMPLOY.

A Number of Prominent Railroaders in the City—New Trains and Excursions. Notes and Comment.

A large number of prominent railway men spent yesterday in the city. They arrived in the morning and left last night, looking after business interests. Among them were Mr. P. S. Gilmore, the general traveling passenger agent of the East Tennessee; Mr. W. T. Murphy, superintendent of the Macon division of the same road; Mr. A. O. Beggs, the master of trains; Mr. T. P. Brown, of the Big Four, with headquarters at Chattanooga; Mr. R. E. Lutz, traffic manager of the Atlanta and West Point; Mr. Frank Stevenson, of the Pennsylvania line, on his way north after a trip through Florida; and Mr. C. S. Shattuck, the passenger agent of the Ohio and Mississippi.

From May 10th the limited from New York will arrive here at 2:25 o'clock p. m., instead of 7 o'clock a. m. as now. There will be other changes made on the lines leading from here in order to connect with this train. Its direct connection will allow the trip to be made in about twenty-five hours.

Fully 300 people will take advantage of the excursion to Birmingham on May 6th and 7th. On the latter day three trains will be run—at 10:15 a. m., 1:10 p. m., and 11:40 p. m., respectively.

The Georgia Pacific is arranging a schedule to go into effect on May 10th, by which the time from here to Memphis will be the shortest ever made. Instead of nineteen hours, as at present, but fifteen hours will be required for the trip. The train which arrives here at 12:10 p. m. daily from Memphis makes that time, and the return will be arranged to correspond. The track is in excellent condition for this speed.

Mr. L. R. Vandivere, for more than a year the commercial agent here of the Kansas City, Memphis and Birmingham road, and for a long while connected with the Air-Line, is now the division freight agent of the former system, vice O. G. Parsons, resigned.

Major Shelman, the traffic manager of the Central; Mr. G. A. Whitehead, the general freight agent; and Mr. E. S. Goodman, general freight agent of the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery road, arrived here yesterday and will be in Atlanta for several days.

The Atlanta and West Point will run an excursion tomorrow for all those wishing to attend the May festival. The rate will be one fare for the round trip from all points.

The officials of the Burlington route, through Mr. B. F. Blake, the traveling freight and passenger agent, have extended to all the delegates from the south who attend the national convention of the Railway Agents' Association at Denver, the courtesies of their entire system and the assurance of a pleasant trip each way, and an enjoyable time while there.

Mr. John P. Slough, an old Atlanta man, agent here of the Beeline, is editing The General Agent, a very recent railway publication, with headquarters at Chicago.

Mr. R. D. Holmes, secretary of the Railway Agents' Association of Birmingham, arrived in the city yesterday for the purpose of introducing a universal rate index book for all local freight agents and any station using rates. It is a simple arrangement and has met with great success. He leaves tonight for Anniston, and will be present at the annual convention at Denver, where the index will be introduced. It is capable of holding 5,200 rates.

Mr. S. H. Hardwick, general passenger agent of the Georgia Pacific, with headquarters at Birmingham, arrived in Atlanta today.

Tom McGill, the well-known railroad man, formerly general northern agent here of the Central road, was a victim of the recent accident on the Big Four road, which occurred between St. Louis and Chicago. His shoulder was badly bruised, and his ear almost entirely cut off. Tom's many friends are sorry to hear of his misfortune, and will be glad to know that the injuries are not dangerous.

LADIES' MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION.

The Sum of $108.66 Was Put in the Contribution Boxes on Memorial Day.

At the meeting of the Memorial association, held Tuesday the 28th, the proceeds of the contribution boxes was announced as follows: Officer Whittley's, $49.58; Officer Cooper's, $38.78; Officer Linam's, $20.30. Total, $108.66. These officers were very kind in making every effort to collect all they could, and the ladies appreciate their interest very highly. After reports of donations, work and financial condition of the association were read, and five new members joined. Committees were appointed for the several departments of work, and after the election of officers was over, the same board being re-elected, the association adjourned until the autumn, subject to the call of the president.

The $108.66 will be devoted to the work which the ladies now have on hand of perpetuating the names of those soldiers whose graves are unidentified by erecting two marble shafts.

Adjourned to this morning at 9 o'clock. After the Blue Ridge circuit is finished, no further arguments will be heard until Wednesday next.

Progress.

It is very important in this age of vast material progress that a remedy be pleasant to the taste and to the eye, easily taken, acceptable to the stomach and healthy in its nature and effects. Possessing these qualities, Syrup of Figs is the one perfect laxative and most gentle diuretic known.

IN THE COURTS.

THE UNDERWOOD CASE POSTPONED UNTIL MONDAY.

A Number of Other Cases Disposed of in the Courts Yesterday—An Insane Prisoner—Other News.

The case of the state against Elisha H. Underwood, charged with the murder of Alex A. Sayre, was called in the criminal branch of the superior court yesterday.

The state was represented by Solicitor General C. D. Hill and Mr. W. J. Neal, of Rome, and the defense by Hon. W. C. Glenn, of this city, and Mr. W. R. Rankin, of Calhoun.

The defense was not ready because of the absence of one of the most important witnesses, Mrs. Sayre, widow of the murdered man.

Soon after the tragedy she left the city and went to the home of her brother in Gordon county, where she has since resided.

Mrs. Sayre, the aged mother of the man for the taking of whose life Underwood is being held for trial, lives near Calhoun, and has been almost broken-hearted since the sad death of her only son.

As the defense announced that the testimony of Mrs. Sayre, and of her brother, Mr. Duggar, were the most important features for that side of the case, a continuance was granted until Monday next.

Underwood is looking well, and appears self-possessed and hopeful, even in the face of the terrible accusation.

Acts As If Insane.

Charlie Jackson, a stalwart negro, of a ginger-cake color, was brought to the courthouse from the jail in a carriage.

He is charged with an assault with intent to murder upon the person of his wife, or the woman that he wanted to be his wife.

He went to her house and asked her to go and live with him. She refused, whereupon he grew peremptory in his demands.

The woman fired up and as indignantly rejected his overtures, whereupon the desperate suitor drew a pistol and fired two bullets into the body of the woman.

She had another lover, and shortly after the shooting he came to the city, having been away for some time. When Jackson heard that he was coming he went to the house again. The woman was locked up in her room, and the other lover saluted him with a couple of pistol bullets, both of which took effect.

Jackson was arrested, placed in jail, one of the balls extracted and was given every possible attention.

A few days ago he became suddenly very ill, and not only did he appear to be sick physically, but mentally unbalanced.

His appearance in court was that of an idiot, and he pertinaciously refused to answer any questions. He was sent back to jail, and a thorough examination of his condition ordered. Dr. Griffin, county physician, will look into the matter at once.

Julius Bone Again.

Wednesday morning Julius Bone was sentenced to twelve months on the public works. Julius is but a boy, and, with a little negro, was convicted of breaking open and robbing a store some time ago.

The case was carried up, and yesterday the state agreed to withdraw the charge of burglary and allow the boys to plead guilty to larceny from the house, because of their youth.

Headache, neuralgia, dizziness, nervousness, spasms, sleeplessness, cured by Dr. Miles' Nervine. Sample free at all druggists.

Interstate Abstract Company.

The advertisement of this concern discloses another important enterprise in Atlanta, which is not only local, but national, as its name implies. The south's rapid development and enhanced values, make the question of clear titles more and more vital. Appreciating this, a number of prominent citizens associated themselves together and purchased the Morgan system for complete abstracts, the most perfect system ever devised, for the states of Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Tennessee and the Carolinas, and obtained a charter last year with a paid up capital of $100,000, the charter authorizing a capital of $500,000, and commenced the manufacture in Atlanta of all the books, tablets and blanks necessary, and have sold the system in many other cities and counties in those states. Besides Atlanta, it is now in use in Macon, Brunswick, Mobile, Gainesville, Newnan, Athens, Marietta, Chattanooga, Cedartown, and other places, and soon will be spread into every county in the seven states, forming a connected system through which it will be easy to obtain information and abstracts of titles to lands in any locality. Loan agencies and dealers in real estate will appreciate this.

It is a home enterprise, as all the material is manufactured in Atlanta. Some of the books and forms being very difficult to make, yet are executed as well, or better, here than anywhere else, which reflects credit on the south and especially on Atlanta and this company.

Mr. W. S. Morgan, the superintendent of the company, is the inventor of the system. He has been operating it in the west a number of years. He is a stockholder in the company, and has become a citizen of West End, where he formerly resided several years ago.

His son, Mr. George W. Morgan, is assistant superintendent and assistant secretary. He is well known, especially among the printers, being a practical printer himself and president of the Atlanta Trades' assembly and a trustee of the Childs-Drexel home for worn-out printers to be built at Colorado Springs.

This company has performed the herculean task of taking off a full abstract of the entire land records of Fulton county. On account of the crowded condition of the courthouse in the day time, this work had to be done at night by a large force of clerks, under the immediate supervision of Mr. Victor L. Smith, one of the best abstract men in the state, assisted by a number of experts, who reviewed every line page by page, correcting every possible error, making the work as accurate as the records themselves. This was very expensive, as it required about thirty clerks and experts for about six months, who were paid good salaries, as the company would have none but first-class work.

Colonel T. P. Westmoreland is president of the company. His name carries assurance of the highest character as to the company and its work. He stands among the ablest lawyers and staunchest citizens of Georgia, enjoying a large practice and ample means, and the fullest confidence of all our people.

J. H. Johnson is vice president, Henry R. Powers, secretary; W. S. Morgan, superintendent; Ulysses Lewis, attorney and secretary, and George W. Morgan, assistant secretary, etc.; Jere W. Goldsmith and L. B. Folsom, directors, all substantial business men, whose names carry moral and financial weight, and who will undoubtedly conduct this company with prudence and good judgment. Such men would insure the success of any enterprise.

The amiable and accomplished Mrs. L. M. Dean, who is so popular, is in the employment of the company. She is said to know more about the records of Fulton county than any living person.

They have just begun to furnish abstracts to the public, and already are crowded with work.

They only propose to furnish a full and complete abstract of everything of record affecting a title, without saying whether a title is good or bad. Your attorney must do that part, basing his judgment on the abstract furnished him. this company being responsible for a true abstract. This will be a great relief to lawyers and others who will be glad to get rid of this clerical labor and responsibility.

Their offices are at 36 and 38 West Alabama street, Maddox & Rucker's Bank building, but will be removed to the new Kiser law building, when completed.

Before abstracting the records of Fulton county they proposed and made a contract with the clerk and ordinary, sanctioned by Judge Marshal J. Clarke, to permit the county, in case of loss or destruction of the records at any time, to take copies from their books free of charge, for public use, which is a benefit to the county, as it gives the county double security in case of accident. It would be well if such arrangement could be made in every county. It is appalling to think of the mass of unprotected records of incalculable value subject to loss and destruction, and which could never be supplied again. The whole record of DeKalb county was burned in 1842, and has affected titles to this day. The loss is irreparable. Nearly all the records at Brunswick were burned a few years ago, and so of many other counties. The grand juries and county commissioners of every county in the state ought to look into this matter, and see that some such arrangement is made for the protection of the public records. We do not hesitate to commend this company and its objects and purposes wherever they seek to extend their valuable system. They ought to be liberally patronized

HELP! HELP! THE LADY FAINTS.

"'Tis the twink of an eye,
'Tis the draught of a breath,
From the blossom of health,
To the paleness of death."

When sudden fainting spells come upon a lady, you may always suspect some uterine disturbances or trouble, or some great disorder in the circulation and nerve centers. A remedy that has always proved successful in warding off and removing the tendency to a recurrence of fainting spells—that removes the cause of them, corrects the circulation of blood, and gives to the system that even running nervous energy so essential, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The "Prescription" is guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or money refunded. Nothing else does as much. You only pay for the good you get.

Can you ask more?

As a regulator and promoter of functional action, at the critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. It is equally efficacious and valuable in its effects when taken for those disorders and derangements incident to that later and most critical period, known as "The change of Life."

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The stock market opened ⅛ to ¾ under yesterday's, closing under hammering by bears and selling orders from London, but offerings were absorbed readily, and the conservative bullish temper of the street was reflected in the quiet business and upward movement of prices, even though the latter was kept within extremely narrow limits, except in a few stocks. In the afternoon a report was received to the effect that Ohio miners had agreed to accept last year's prices, and this was taken to indicate that strikes in any other coal districts wouldn't last long. Reports of grain prospects were exceedingly favorable, and of a character to give confidence in the matter of prospective railroad earnings. The issue of the Burlington statement of earnings for March, however, was so unfavorable that it precipitated another selling movement, which had the effect of knocking Burlington off 2 per cent, and the general market gave evidences of a lack of support for a moment. List followed in the wake of Burlington, and prices were brought down to something below the level of the opening figures all along the line. The early morning advances were in all cases wiped out, except in a few specialties, such as Cordage and Lackawana, which had displayed marked strength and made material gains. The market finally closed steady, efforts in the last few minutes to recover stock put out on decline making a slight rally. The close was quiet and steady, at fractional losses from last night's prices as a rule. Sales listed stocks, 249,000 shares; unlisted, 23,000.

Exchange quiet but firm at 486@490; commercial bills 484½@487¼.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, April 29—[Special.]—The official cable from Liverpool this morning reported the spot market as more active but at unchanged prices. Spot sales were 10,000 bales, corroborating private cables advising the development of a feeling in favor of cotton and a tendency toward improvement in Manchester. Futures opened easy at 1@2-64d decline, but by 1 o'clock had recovered the loss and closed firm at 1-32d above last evening. In New York, notwithstanding large bear sales at the opening, prices were some 3 points higher, and a steady legitimate demand, both for long and short account during the day, gradually advanced the market, the closing being quiet and steady at 8.86 for August. The weakness of yesterday in New Orleans seems to have been spasmodic, and is by some thought to have been artificial, in view of the dominant bearish sentiment there and the fact that the near positions are some 15 points higher today. Generally the market has assumed an aspect of more solidity today, and has shown but little susceptibility to the attacks of the bears. Receipts at both ports and interior towns are relatively lighter, and we hear of less cotton offering from the south. Reports of unsatisfactory results from planting in many sections continue to reach us. The unanimity with which such disappointment is attributed to defective seed has led us to make special inquiries as to whether there is, as a rule, an impairment of fecundity in the seed of a plant that has produced abnormally large quantity of fruit. Will those of our friends who are practical farmers let us have their opinion on this point?

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, April 29.—The grain markets all opened very much lower than yesterday's closing prices this morning, and with almost a panicky feeling, on account of disquieting rumors as to the financial standing of B. P. Hutchinson, the veteran speculator, as he was understood to have a heavy line of trades in all of the pits, in which he was carrying heavy losses. The markets were further affected as the day progressed favorably by a report that his checks had been all duly honored at the board of trade clearing house, and unfavorably by stories to the effect that he had mysteriously disappeared, and that he had probably either committed suicide or was wandering about demented. Fine weather and lower cables also had their influence on the market, and the uncertain news received regarding the French duty tended to create an unsettled feeling. The result was that July wheat opened at $1.04½ against $1.06½ at the close yesterday. Some operators, having trades with Hutchinson, closed them out; but the market did not sink below the opening inside figures, for shorts began to buy heavily, and the price quickly advanced to $1.05⅛, then eased off again, and for considerable time held within $1.04⅝@1.05⅛. Then the following cable from Liverpool was shown around:

"Wheat and corn unchanged; strong and tending upward on certain remission of one-half of the present French duty on wheat, and whole of duty on corn."

Under this stimulus July wheat sold up to $1.05⅝, and for some time there was a strong and active market.

But Ream, Pardridge and other leading bears showed heavy lines on advance. A dispatch was received contradicting the reported removal of the French duty, and weakness again set in. It was helped by the report of Hutchison's disappearance, on the strength of which a good deal of his long stuff was thrown on the market. This caused a break to $1.01⅝. The closing cables were stronger, however, and July sold up again to $1.05⅛, but weakened later and closed at ½c below that.

There was much activity and excitement in corn with a wide and irregular range of prices, chiefly the result of the Hutchinson rumors. The market opened weak at 61¼@61¾c for July on a report that a large line of long property was to be sold, and the offerings of local room traders were heavy. The property referred to not coming on the market prices reacted, selling up to 62¾c, and early sellers turned buyers at a considerable loss. The advance did not hold, estimates for tomorrow of 596 cars being announced, and prices receded to nearly opening figures. Some long property also came on the market about this time, which had a depressing influence; but, on a rumor that the French import duty would be removed, took a jump to 63¼c, eased off on a contradiction of this and closed at 62⅞c.

Oats were active and unsettled; and, although opening weaker and lower, reacted and closed ¼@1c higher than yesterday. A good deal of long stuff came out, but after the flurry subsided a better feeling developed. The change was chiefly due to a large demand for cash oats from shippers, who bought so freely as to advance prices 3@4c.

Provisions were weak for a short time near the opening in sympathy with the grains, but recovered with the cereals. Pork closed at a loss of 5c compared with yesterday's close, and lard is off 2½c, but ribs are up 2½c.

DUNN IS IN IT.

IDENTIFIED AS CROCKETT BY TELLER CLARKE,

Of the Capital City Bank—The Skirt Dancer Who Posed as His Wife Goes Back to New York, but He Is Behind the Bars.

J. L. Dunn, the young man arrested Monday night at the Kimball, and who is still behind the bars at the station house, is, it seems, a very slick customer.

The work of the detectives yesterday puts the forgery of the cotton way bills and drafts pretty conclusively upon him.

Under the name of Crockett, it was learned that he drew a draft through the Capital City bank, on Eugene Dorzlett & Son, of St. Louis, Mo., for $650.

Chief Detective Couch, upon learning that Crockett, who appeared as the consignor of the cotton named in the forged bills of lading had personally drawn a draft through the Capital City bank, took Dunn, the prisoner, before the officials of that bank.

Mr. Peter Clarke, the teller, readily identified him as the man who had signed Stuart Crockett to the $650 draft on Eugene Dorzlett & Son, of St. Louis, and which draft was refused payment by that firm. It was sent back to the Capital City bank and is now in Mr. Clarke's possession.

This seems to show that Dunn is Crockett, and the forged way bills and bogus drafts are all signed by Crockett, consignor.

The detectives have also ascertained that Dunn assumed the name of Crockett, doubtless because of the fact that a cotton dealer of that name actually existed at one time in Jonesboro, Ga. This Mr. Crockett, however, has been dead for two years, and his death being known to the Memphis cotton men, upon whom the drafts were drawn, caused them to begin the investigation, which resulted in Dunn's arrest.

This investigation, however, was not instituted before Brooks, Neely & Co., one of the Memphis firms, had paid the $3,500 draft drawn on them. But this money never reached Dunn. The firm discovered the mistake in time to telegraph the Southern Express Company to hold the money, and finally got it back again.

A telegram was received from H. W. Waddell, railroad agent at Columbus, Miss., notifying the officials that this signature on the Crockett bills of lading was a forgery, and that no cotton such as mentioned had been shipped through his office.

The signature of J. D. Evans, railroad agent at West Point, Miss., is also declared a forgery.

Mr. C. T. Campbell, district superintendent of the Southern Express Company, at Atlanta, has been officially notified of the bogus drafts, and directing him to be on the lookout in case the same scheme has been attempted in other places.

Captain Couch thinks Dunn is one of a gang of swindlers who have been working recently from New York, two of whom were caught there recently by Inspector Byrnes.

Telegrams were sent to Austin, Tex., which place Dunn claimed as his home, yesterday. A reply was received stating that he was known there, but not by any means prominently.

He had, it was stated, invested $5,000 there a year or two ago. A telegram was also sent to San Antonio, but no answer came back.

Up to Dunn's identification as Stewart Crockett by Mr. Clarke at the Capital City bank, the officers thought it possible that he might have been victimized; but the evidence they now have confirms them in the belief that he is the guilty party.

Dunn yesterday employed Col. B. F. Abbott as his attorney, and it is likely that he will try the virtue of habeas corpus today.

Miss Maurice, the New York skirt dancer who has been sharing Dunn's fortunes with him, left yesterday for New York.

She said she did not care what became of Dunn, and was glad enough to get away from him, when his money was about gone and he was behind the bars.

The following letter concerning the way bill forgery business was yesterday received from Chief Davis, of Memphis, by Chief Connolly:

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 27.—A. B. Connolly, Chief of Police, Atlanta, Ga.—Dear Sir: A party whose letterheads show that he is located in your city as cotton buyer and signing his name as J. Stewart Crockett has sent Brooks, Neely & Co. a bill of lading for 118 bales of cotton dated West Point, Miss., and signed J. D. Evans. Evans is the railroad agent at that point, but telegraphs Brooks, Neely & Co. that there was no cotton shipped, and to all appearance the bill of lading is a forgery. J. Stewart Crockett also drew a draft on Brooks, Neely & Co., based on the bill of lading for $3,500 in favor of C. Guy Corbett & Co., of date April 23d, and they endorse it to the Southern Express Company at your place for collection. The firm name was endorsed on the back of the draft by J. W. Watson, attorney. Brooks, Neely & Co. paid the draft, but afterward got it back from the Southern Express Company. The same party also sent Hill, Fontaine & Co. bill of lading of 110 bales of cotton from West Point, Miss., and Toof, McGowan & Co. 101 bales from Columbus, Miss., and drew drafts on all parties. I do not know who the criminal is, but this no doubt is a rank forgery and swindle. What I would like you to do is to investigate the matter and write or wire the result. All the bills of lading are dated 3-22, but it was evidently intended for 4-22.

Please notify L. L. McClesky, division agent Georgia Pacific railroad, that J. D. Evans, West Point, Miss, has been affixed to false bills of lading by some one. W. C. DAVIS, Chief Police.

GEORGIA'S DEVELOPMENT.

A Hopeful Card From the Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture.

EDITOR CONSTITUTION: Every discerning and thinking man sees that progress is being rapidly made in every line of material industry in the state. The despondent, woe-begone look is getting out of our people's faces. Hope, enterprise and energy are asserting themselves. The head is up and the step is firm, showing that we have struck rock bottom. Loan and investment companies are springing up. Capital is coming. Prices of real estate grow firmer and brighter. New and varied industries are constantly being established. All lines of trade are swelling, manufacturing is growing. A close observer remarked a few days since that Atlanta was getting about self-sustaining through her multiplied industries, notwithstanding her marvelous growth. Our people are beginning to feel that Georgia is a state worth living in, and rather to be proud of than ashamed of. We are getting that self-confidence so essential to permanent prosperity.

The earth is being made to yield her increase in response to better methods of culture. Her railroads are being taxed to carry her products of fruit, vegetables, melons, lumber, ores and cotton. The bowels of the earth as well as the surface are called upon for their quota, minerals, slates, marble, granite, and phosphates are being exhumed and brought to the light of day.

And these are found to be so marvelously rich that even such a man as Dr. I. S. Hopkins, in speaking of one of these ore beds, says:

"The examination was a revelation to me; I did not know there was such a rich deposit of such rich ore in such rich form as exists there. In every instance the cuts have been stopped by a solid vein of ore. It is without doubt a most remarkable development."

Another company says: "We had a load of ore as rich as that of the Chattahoochee Land Company in Cherokee county." Indeed, we are just waking up from our Rip Van Winkle slumbers and putting on the habiliments of progress.

Now much of this new life has been awakened by the work of the agricultural department. The constant inquiries which this department has been making, and the repeated publications that have gone out have awakened thought and action. This department is still trying to forward this good work in every way, and asks the cordial support of every man interested in the growth of Georgia.

We cannot do everything in a day, but with your co-operation we will do much in the years to come. The farmers—always noted for their conservatism—have been slow to catch on to the new spirit and new methods. But they are waking up. More grass is being sown, more colts raised, less corn will in the future be bought. Self-sustaining methods are being studied and practiced. The more of this the better. Rapidly increasing population will give better home markets, and these in turn will enhance the value of the lands. Better country homes will be built and better country schools will follow.

The press of the state has been and will be a prime factor in this grand march of progress. They not only advertise our resources, but they educate our people. They cause them to read, and reading makes them think. So they grow more intelligent, more enterprising and more energetic.

The great drawback in this march forward is the scarcity of money. There is not enough currency to do business legitimately. We need more money; we must have more money.

Our representatives must demand this, and press the demand until they get it.

In the meantime, let us work together. Many men with a little money can do wonders if they combine and work together. Every dollar thus invested in developing enterprises will yield a twofold reward. It will increase the values of property and cultivate the habit of saving economy, so that we may have more to invest. A man who once owns a share that pays a dividend, is sure to want another share. JAS. B. HUNNICUTT.

THE W. AND A. COMMISSION.

Mr. Brown Concludes His Argument and Judge Hall Commences.

The Western and Atlantic commission was in session four hours yesterday, but there was no excitement whatever.

Mr. Julius Brown concluded his argument, which began on Friday last, and at 10 o'clock Judge John I. Hall took the floor for the state. Judge Hall spoke until 1 o'clock, analyzing the evidence, when, on account of his health, he asked an adjournment until today. Judge Clifford Anderson follows Judge Hall, and he in turn will be followed by Major Cumming, who will conclude the argument.

There was considerable speculation around the senate chamber, where the commission is in session, yesterday about the time it will take to conclude the argument. It was the general opinion that the argument would be at an end Saturday afternoon, but there are some who expect to see the commission in session until the middle of next week.

The "Ouija,"

(We-ja), patented 1890. Most wonderful invention of the nineteenth century. Baltimore and all the cities of the United States are wild over it. A game and a puzzle. $500 for solution of the mystery. A mysterious parlor game.

This most interesting and mysterious talking board has awakened great curiosity wherever shown.

It surpasses in its results second sight, mind reading or clairvoyance.

It consists of a small table placed upon a large board containing the alphabet and numerals. By simply resting the fingers of two persons upon the small table it moves, and to all intents and purposes becomes a living, sensible thing, giving intelligent answers to any question that can be propounded.

Wonderful as this may seem, the "Ouija" was thoroughly tested and the above facts demonstrated at the United States patent office before the patent was allowed.

Price only $1.50 and $2. You cannot make a better present than the "Ouija."

SIMPLE TALKS ON THE EYE.

"The proper study of mankind is man." If this be so, then it is not amiss to consider one of the most important parts in the make-up of a man, viz.: his eyes.

The eye is curiously and wonderfully formed, and it is the most perfect optical contrivance. It is apparently complicated, and yet it is simple. It is strong, and yet in a certain way delicate. It receives the light, allows it to pass through the aqueous humor, crystalline lens, and vitreous humor, whose function it is to properly assort and distribute the rays and throw them on the retina. Thus we have the sense of sight. The eye is called upon frequently to work two-thirds of the time, and it performs the task reliably and uncomplainingly until tired nature can hold out no longer, then the assistance of glasses is required. Glasses are used mainly by persons for presbyopia or old sight as it is called. This occurs at the age of forty and forty-five, and is easy to correct, if glasses are used in time. In young persons the ciliary muscle contracts and makes the crystalline lens more convex, but, as one grows older, the muscle becomes less able to do this work, and the crystalline lens grows harder, and it is necessary to apply convex glasses of proper strength to correct this deficiency. A few of the other defects of vision are mentioned and illustrated below.

SHOWING A PERFECT EYE.

In the above illustration it will be seen that the emmetropic or perfectly formed eye is adjusted for parallel rays of right. In such an eye the rays enter, pass through the crystalline lens, and the other refractive media and focus exactly on the retina at the back. The impression is then conveyed to the brain through the optic nerve, and the result is perfect vision.

It is frequently the case that, by reason of defective construction of the eye, the distance to the retina is too great and the rays focus before reaching the retina.

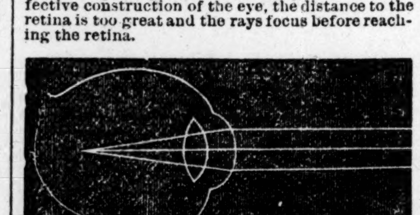

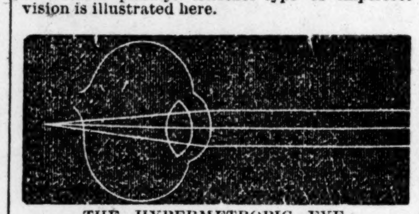

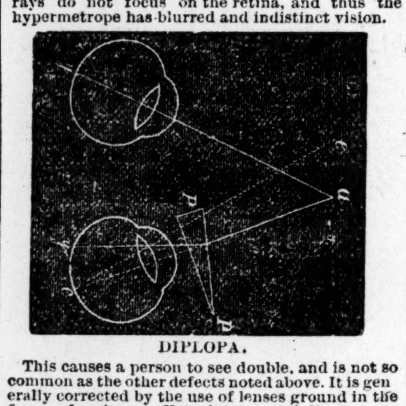

DIAGRAM OF MYOPIC EYE.

This condition causes myopia, or near-sightedness, as it is generally called. The above cut shows this defect plainly. Another type of imperfect vision is illustrated here.

THE HYPERMETROPIC EYE.

This is the reverse of myopia, in that the distance from the lens to the retina is too short. The rays do not focus on the retina, and thus the hypermetrope has blurred and indistinct vision.

DIPLOPA.

This causes a person to see double, and is not so common as the other defects noted above. It is generally corrected by the use of lenses ground in the form of prisms. For hypermetropia convex lenses are worn, and cases of near-sightedness are relieved by concave lenses. There are many other defects that cannot be spoken of now, on account of lack of space, but we will say a few words about astigmatism, from which many persons suffer. It is caused by a want of symmetry in the cornea, and there are several varieties of the simple and compound astigmatism. It is treated by oculists and cylindrical lenses prescribed and they are furnished by the optician. Numbers of people, including children, have, frequent headaches, and do not understand the cause. It is often the result of astigmatism. In civilized countries and especially among students at colleges and universities, the percentage is constantly increasing of those who wear glasses. Their use enables the student who has weak eyes to study without discomfort or fatigue, and thus keep up with the class.

Among those who supply glasses of all kinds, there is none so well known to the public as the optician A. K. Kawkes. Starting many years ago in a modest way, his reputation grew for making none but the best glasses. His business increased. He established one of his houses in Atlanta. This being a peculiarly favorable location for him, his trade rapidly increased in volume. He then decided to concentrate his energies in building up the greatest business of this kind that has ever been carried on. His branch house at Austin, Tex., was closed and consolidated with this. He erected machinery for grinding all kinds of lenses. In accordance with his custom of doing nothing by halves, he equipped the factory with the most modern improvements in this line. The plant is operated by an electric motor of great power. While there are several other factories in the south for grinding the surface of lenses, they are all simple machines, and cannot compare in extent, perfection nor completeness with that of Mr. Hawkes. This is natural, as it requires the immense trade which he has been for years building up to enable him to place and operate this expensive machinery. Before the wheels of the factory began to revolve the offices were removed to 12 Whitehall street, and a fitting department was fixed up in the salesroom, which is said to be one of the most elegant in the United States.

Trained opticians are in attendance here and see that proper glasses are given, and that the frames are correctly adjusted. In a word it is intended that this shall be everywhere known as a house, that can supply out of stock or make in the factory, anything in the optical line in first-class shape. A. K. HAWKES,
Manufacturing Optician, 12 Whitehall.

THE ALASKA

Possesses the following points over

ALL OTHER REFRIGERATORS.

1. The preservation of perishable foods.
2. The disposal of the foul vapors which constantly exhale from provisions.
3. Dryness of atmosphere in the provision chamber.
4. Low and unvarying temperature.
5. An economical use of ice.
6. A rapid and perfect circulation of air from the provision chamber to the ice chest.
7. The provision chamber of the Alaska never coats from condensation, but is always clean and free from foul odors.
8. The flues of an Alaska do not require cleaning, as do other makes, because it is so perfectly and systematically constructed that the cold dry air, by its constant circulation, keeps them sweet and clean.
9. It will keep provisions longer and better, using less ice than any other refrigerator.
10. It is better made, better finished, and gives better satisfaction.

GOLD SMITH,

30 S. BROAD STREET.

We offer for sale for the first time the prettiest building lots on the Boulevard and St. Charles avenue. We have the exclusive sale of this property. These lots are north of the famous Ponce de Leon circle and on the Boulevard and St. Chaale avenue, a lovely, wide street running from the Boulevard to Ponce de Leon springs. All the lots are choice, level and beautiful, the very place for lovely homes near the famous Ponce de Leon springs, and having unusual facilities for rapid transit, an electric line being now in operation on Boulevard, and another to take the place of the horse line on Ponce de Leon circle, to Ponce de Leon Springs. These lots face the Boulevard and St. Charles ave., and have each 200 feet depth, stone curbing and paved sidewalks down and paid for. Any frontage desired can be sold, 50 feet or more. A number of the best citizens own lots around this property and many will erect costly homes in a few months. For desirability, beauty of situation, elegant surroundings, convenience of rapid transit, together with the low prices at which these lots can now be sold, present an opportunity rarely offered to home-seekers. Call and get prices. You can buy as much as you want over 50 feet front, located where you wish and be settled for life or hold for investment, where a big future awaits the fortunate buyer.

Central Peachtree Lots

FOR SALE

Wednesday, May 6th, at 4 O'Clock, Opposite "The Normandie,"

just north of Baker street. Here is a splendid chance to buy a fine, deep lot on the west side of Peachtree street, close in; belgian blocks, gas, water, street cars and magnificent shade trees are already provided. No more valuable vacant lots can be had so near the business centers on such a desirable street. The demand for just such property is so great 'tis wrong to keep buildings off of these lots any longer. They will be sold for just what you are willing to pay, and doubtless built upon during the present year. Business men who desire to be convenient to the central part of the city on nice, clean paved streets, with delightful neighbors and elegant homes around them, will find it to their interest to call and secure a plat and attend this sale at 4 o'clock Wednesday, May 6. Terms—⅓ cash, balance in 6 and 12 months, 8 per cent. Titles perfect. The lots are north of and adjoining the residence of the late John R. Gramling.

FOR SALE

Tuesday, May 5th, at 3 O'Clock,

9-Beautiful and Valuable Lots-9

On Forest avenue, Calhoun and Currier streets. On a large deep lot, fronting Currier street, is an elegant modern 7-room new house. Forest avenue is one of the most desirable residence streets in Atlanta. Judge Newman of the U. S. court, has plans ready for erecting a splendid home on his lot this summer. This property has been sought after for years, but never before has it been upon the market at any price. This is the most opportune time of your life to secure such desirable lots at reasonable figures. They are near the center, with perfect streets and walks, and surrounded by the most fashionable and elegant people in Atlanta. The lots are large and in splendid shape to build upon. He who is wise enough to buy now will never regret it. Good real estate in Atlanta advances steadily every year. When can you equal this locality for a first-class home? Gas, water, electric cars and belgian blocks are all around this block. Be at the sale Tuesday, May 5th, at 3 o'clock.

Adjoining May Utility Works,

Thursday, May 7, at 3 O'clock.

On East avenue, overlooking Copenhill Park and Inman Park, with the R. & D. railroad bordering the property on the east and the electric cars on Highland avenue just south. There is no portion of Atlanta where you can find better water or purer air. Everything around this locality is as clean and sweet as a rose. Come to my office for particulars. The May Utility works fronts on the Air-Line R. R., and is equipped with all of the latest and most approved machinery for manufacturing first-class furniture. Valuable and expensive improvements are now going on all around this property, which will greatly enhance the value of these lots in the near future, and every dollar of this increased value will go to your credit. You see this block has never been upon the market before, and, of course, will sell for more money every year, after the buildings begin to go up on some of these lots. Examine this property throughout, and you are bound to attend the sale THURSDAY, MAY 7th, at 3 o'clock.

Suburban Land Company Sale

AT EAST END,

THURSDAY, APRIL 30TH.

Beginning at 11 O'clock Prompt.

The rain having cut short this sale, we will continue to offer those choice lots to the highest bidder the above date. EAST END is the most desirable and lovely location on the new dummy line from the center of Atlanta to Decatur. Being just east of the city limits on an elegant and commanding elevation, it is certainly a very desirable spot to live on. The water is perfect, the pure bracing atmosphere as you breathe it under the shade of original trees is delightful and exhilarating. The lots are large and level. The free school building is under way and will be open for the children of East End about September 1st. The latest improvements are in the building and the very best patent school desks that are made have been ordered. One young man scarcely out of his teens bought a lot last Thursday at my sale and sold his bid on the ground for $60 profit, and took down the cold cash on the spot. We are selling cheap now, but later on prices are bound to double. Then be on hand and avail yourself of this opportunity to either get a home cheap or make money on your purchase. I know several ladies that are making more money buying and selling Atlanta real estate than their husbands ever made in the same time. The same privilege is open to all. It only requires judgment, nerve and a small amount of cold cash.

Go to the corner of Alabama and Pryor streets Thursday, April 30th, at 10 or 11 o'clock, and attend this sale. Plats at my office.
